Three families dominate Holstein show

By DIETER KRIEG

QUARRYVILLE — Several of Lancaster County's best known Holstein breeders shared the top prizes in Thursday's Lancaster District Holstein Show, held here at the Solanco Fairgrounds. The Nathan Stoltzfus family of Gap R2 won the coveted Premier Exhibitor banner, narrowly edging J. Mowery Frey and his family, who were awarded the Premier Breeder trophy.

The Nathan Stoltzfus family of Gap R2, owners of Con-Noll Holsteins, were in the spotlight Thursday afternoon as they won several titles in and numberous ribbons in the Lancaster County Open Holstein Show. Their 18-year old daughter, Joyce, at the halter of her reserve grand champion, is the 1978-79 Lancaster County Dairy Princess. Holding the banner is Jane, 15, and looking on are Leonard, 16, and their parents.

The grand champion female of this year's show was Andfar Astronaut Cinderella, owned by Robert Kauffman of Elizabethtown. It was the third time in four attempts that the stylish female won the title here. She was chosen as reserve grand champion last year.

Stoltzfus, like Frey, and Kauffman, has been one of the top exhibitors at this event for the past several years. He won both the Premier Breeder and Exhibitor banners in 1976. Last year J. Mowery Frey won both banners.

Stoltzfus and his family, whose Holsteins are known by the Con-Noll prefix, exhibited a total of 16 animals here. Eight of them were entered in the 4-H show which was held the day before. In addition to their reserve grand champion and Premier Exhibitor banners, the family also had the first place herd, best three females and first senior get of sire.

Stoltzfus and his wife, Esther, are the parents of this year's Lancaster County Dairy Princess, Joyce, who is owner of the reserve grand champion Holstein of this year's show. She is Con-Noll Gay Rosene, a 3-year old daughter of Harrisburg Gay Ideal who is classified VG-87 and has a projected record of 19,000 pounds of milk and 800 pounds of butterfat.

The honors for junior champion went to Paul Horning of Stevens, with the reserve ribbon going to the Robert Kauffman family of Elizabethtown.

Jay Garber, 12, is all smiles over his winnings in the Guernsey show during the 4-H Dairy Round-up on Wednesday

Balmers, Garber win 4-H Guernsey titles

QUARRYVILLE — Twelve-year old Jay Garber, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Garber, Willow Street R2,and two sisters from Lititz were the big winners in the Guernsey Show of the Lancaster County 4-H Dairy Round-up. It was held here Wednesday at the Solanco Fairgrounds. The young man was all smiles after having collected ribbons for junior champion, junior showmanship, and grand champion junior showman in all-breed competition.

Jay is in his fourth year of 4-H membership and comes from a 60-cow Guernsey farm near Willow Street.

Also big winners at this year's 4-H Guernsey Show were Connie and Carol Balmer, the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Balmer of Lititz. They had the grand and reserve grand champions of the breed, respectively, and were champion

Good shows FFA hog champ

By JOANNE SPAHR

LANCASTER — In February the Paul Good family, Lititz R6, finished up a new farrowing house and began farrowing for the first time. Five months later (on Tuesday) Tom Good, age 16, was named the champion breeder/exhibitor of the 16th annual Lancaster County FFA hog show. Then, later on in the day, the same 210 pound gilt that won the breeder/exhibitor title for him also earned the grand champion of show over all 273 hogs entered. Adding to Good's impressive list of winnings, a 205 pound littermate to the grand champion was named champion carcass on foot at the Tuesday show.

Needless to say, it was a pretty good day, considering

Jerry Clemens, (left) chief buyer for Hatfield Packing Company, Hatfield, came to Tuesday's Lancaster FFA hog show and sale prepared to buy. He purchased Tom Good's 210 pound gilt for $2.50 per pound, which totaled $525. Hatfield also bought the reserve champion for $1.32 per pound.

Binkley wins plowing trophy for third time

By KENDACE BORRY

MOUNT JOY — This year he gets to take the trophy home and keep it there. Richard O. Binkley, Columbia R2, won the Lancaster County Conservation District's field day plowing contest for the third year. He had previously won it in 1975 and 1977. As a result he retires the plowing trophy.

The contest was held at the farm of J. Harold Esbenshade, Manheim R7, on Thursday of this week under cloudy skies that let the sun shine long enough to keep everyone happy. There Binkley and his competitor

Many ag activities slated for next week

LANCASTER — A number of field days, conventions and special agricultural events will be taking place in southeastern Pennsylvania and surrounding areas this coming week which farmers may want to consider attending.

On Tuesday, August 1, for example there will be a field day at Penn State University's research farm near Landisville, and both Chester and Lancaster County Holstein breeders will hold their annual picnic and judging contests. Next Saturday, August 5, cattlemen will hold their annual field day at two noted farms

At Pennfield, we formulate feeds and feeding programs with your profit in mind.

"All feed companies are alike."

If you believe that statement, you could be missing an opportunity to increase your output of eggs, pork or milk—without increasing your costs.

At Pennfield, our basic goal is to help our customers make more money. We believe we can accomplish this for you, too. For these reasons:

- Customized feeding programs. We specifically tailor a program to your operation, not to an "operation like yours."
- Nutritionally-superior feeds. We go a step beyond many conventional feeds. Our feeds have Optimum Nutrient Density (most profitable nutrient level per pound of feed) and contain high-quality protein for balanced amino acid nutrition.
- Quality in, quality out. We chemically analyze all incoming feed grains for pesticide residues and toxins... and all finished feeds for overall quality and nutrient content.
- Technical service. We're responsive to your needs—by phone or on your farm.
- A local company. We buy our feed grains locally; shipping savings are passed on to customers. Our feeding programs are developed based on local conditions. We do test work and field trials based on local conditions.

These and other Pennfield advantages are helping hundreds of new customers increase their profits. We can do the same for you. But you must take the first step by phoning or writing us. Do it today.

IT IS TIME TO CHANGE
(THIS FALL YET)
BACK TO NATURE IS THE ANSWER FOR PESTILENCE AND DISEASE
WE ARE PROVING IT
BIOLOGICAL FARMING MAKES ¢ENSE AND SAVES MANY $ $ $

Because it conserves energy - fertilizer & horsepower.
(bacteria & earthworms make plant food & loosen the soil)
Because it prevents pollution - that dreaded foe.
Because it produces food fit to eat & saves doctor bills.
Because it preserves the soil for our sons - it is no dead end street.
(that more chemicals you use, the more you have to use later)

It does all the above & costs less, especially if you use our soil innoculant - AGRISPON, which is being highly proven, near & far, including foreign countries on millions of acres. They are desperate and see the value of it. It replenishes the life to the soil which has been killed by toxins. Therefore, you need much less fertilizer. Soil tests prove it. Only $6.50 per acre. If you need fertilizer, use our long lasting, health promoting FERTRELL. Blue label is especially good for alfalfa & grasses.

SOIL CONDITIONER, another product, is especially good in breaking hard pan & loosening the soil from top to bottom for better root growth & water holding capacity Only $2.70 per acre. In liquid form.

Apply above products on hay & grain fields as soon as crop is off, for fast decomposition of stalks - early soil conditioning. Only rotted stalks are fertilizer. Unrotted are nitrogen consumers next year Though we sell fertilizer, we teach for your survival. Our program is winning because it was designed by the Creator. For service of a tractor, don't you use the manual of the maker? We have soil testing, spreading & non-toxic spraying service. Fall is the best time for organic.

My Thoughts ...

And welcome to them

By JOANNE SPAHR
Assistant Editor

Well, it's back again This makes about the fourth time in my life that I've been plagued by it By this time I can see it coming--the symptoms are always the same It starts with a small lump in my throat that gets bigger and bigger and hurts more and more At the same time my eyes cloud up and begin watering profusely, and when I try to talk I sound like a screeching guinea pig The bouts last anywhere from seconds to minutes, but the disease may continue as long as a month or more

I call it Lump-in-the-Throat-itis and have pinned the cause to leaving home family, loved ones and friends, which I'll be doing, again, in a short time when I go back to school for a masters' degree in journalism

And, along with leaving my family, I'll be leaving Lancaster Farming, a move I just can't fathom at the moment

I remember just last year at the end of fair season, driving home from the final show and screaming at the top of my lungs, "If I ever have to chase another champion hog around a ring I'm going to butcher it and eat it "

And, after galloping around the 4-H center to catch a bunch of itchy 4-H'ers who wouldn't stand still for a picture, I recall grumbling under my breath, "There has to be an easier way to make a living "

But now that my last day at Lancaster Farminghas arrived, the thought of no more 4-H'ers or champion hogs gives me a lump in my throat

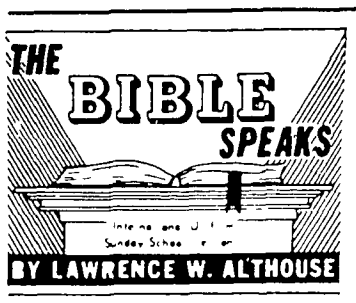
I'll miss the work, I know, but I'll especially miss the wonderful people I've come to know and care for during my two years on the newspaper staff I'd fill all 136 pages this week if I began listing names, so I won't But, you've all touched my heart in one way or another

Whether it's been by stopping to talk at a show or writing a note of thank you, or even by naming a heifer Joanne--all the kindnesses have stockpiled in my mental scrapbook, which makes it difficult to say goodbye

But, when I think about it, I know I'm lucky A friend of mine once said to me, "It's hard to leave something or someone you love, but if you leave with a heavy heart you know you've been blessed because what you're leaving has been good "

So, as I leave my desk and typewriter for the final time with mist in my eyes and a lump in my throat I can truly say I've been blessed

Thank you all



THE EAGLE'S SWANSONG

Lesson for July 30, 1978

Background Scripture:
Acts 20 1 through 21·16
Devotional Reading:
John 14 12-24

There's an old belief that just before it dies, the swan sings a death song. From that tradition has come the term "swansong", which has come to mean the last act or presentation from one who is about to die, retire, or step down from some position Several years ago I made a final speech to an organization as I prepared to step down as its president. To put light mood on the occasion, I entitled my address "Swansong From A Lame Duck "

Hail and Farewell

Paul's address to the Ephesian church leaders at Miletus might well be regarded as his swansong to them He fully expected never to see them again and he plainly told them this would be his farewell to them When he had finished speaking, "they all wept and embraced Paul and kissed him, sorrowing most of all because of the word he had spoken, that they should see his face no more" (30·37,38)

Yet, if this was his swansong to them - and it seems likely that he never did return - his message was hardly that of a "lame duck", a term we often apply to someone who is relinquishing a position of authority or power Paul does not appear before them "weepy" and weak. He speaks powerfully, seeking to inspire and influence them even after he is gone

The essence of his message is two-fold First, he reminds them of the heard and perilous work he did among them. He had been responsible for their faith, the beginning of their church and even though he has been "on the road," so to speak, they have looked to him for support and guidance Now, however, they would have to assume responsibility for themselves "Therefore I testify to you this day that I am innocent of the blood of all of you, for I did not shrink from declaring to you the whole counsel of God" (20·26) He has more than done his part, now they must "Take heed to yourselves and to the flock, in which the Holy Spirit has made you overseers "

Blessedness of Giving

The second point Paul makes is that they will find in his own example the key to their continued success and safety as he gave himself willingly for them, enduring trials and suffering on their behalf, so they must now be willing to give themselves for the sake of the church for which God had given his own Son He reminds them of a saying of Jesus which has not been included in the gospels and is known to us only through this passage in Acts. "It is more blessed to give than to receive" (20 35) Both Jesus and Paul had demonstrated this with their very lives, and so now must the Ephesians

It is a sad but inspired group of Ephesians that bids goodbye to Paul and his spirit would remain with them for a long time Paul's swansong could have been pure sentimentality Instead it was a powerful and inspiring challenge It was a high-flying eagle, not a lame duck, who had said farewell

NOW IS THE TIME

TO MAKE SUMMER ALFALFA SEEDINGS

Even though straight Spring seedings of alfalfa have been giving excellent results, producers who are planning to make a Summer seeding should get on the job We suggest that these seedings be made by the middle of August here in southeastern Pennsylvania The idea of making these seedings later in the Fall is to be discouraged

The plants will not get enough root system to withstand the Winter. The band seeding method continues to be one of the best ways to make the seeding Both lime and fertilizer applications should be made prior to seeding and worked into the topsoil

Don't plan on good results by spreading the lime on top of the ground next Summer Weeds should be controlled by spraying with Eptam, prior to seeding, or with the 2,4-DB when the weeds are less than 2 inches high

TO HARVEST BLUEGILL SUNFISH

One of the major problems with many farm ponds is the failure of the owner to harvest the sunfish crop each Summer. In many cases the sunfish are put into the pond as food for the bass; however, most folks put in too many sunfish and fail to take them out Most of us like to go for the larger bass and forget about the sunfish In these cases the sunfish multiply too rapidly and soon we have a pond overstocked and out of balance The sunfish take over by eating the spawn of the bass and thus preventing reproduction of more bass

In ponds already stocked with sunfish we urge heavy fishing of the sunfish each year and go easy on the removal of too many large bass In new ponds stock with Golden Shiners and Black Bass and avoid the sunfish problem

TO PREPARE THE SILO

The corn crop is developing rapidly and soon it will be silo filling time The condition of the silo should get some attention before the new corn crop is ensiled Many of the concrete silos may be pitted and have a rough inside surface This will permit air pockets and moldy silage Some inside joints may need to be repointed in order to keep out the air and have a smooth surface.

Don't wait until the silo filler is coming to make these repairs

Silage is one of the most economical livestock feeds A good storage facility is needed to have top quality feed Don't let it spoil after it is in the silo

TO PREVENT TOMATO BACTERIAL SPOT

We are aware of moderate infection of tomato plants with a leaf spot; the pathologists name it bacterial leaf spot which has been found in several southeastern tomato fields; also, has been diagnosed in garden tomatoes The lower leaves begin to show spots with brown centers and eventually the entire leaf dies.

We suggest weekly sprays with Fixed Copper plus Maneb or Bravo, this should keep the infection from spreading to other parts of the plant The cure is very difficult The prevention of this infection is suggested before the plants start dying. These fungicides will not make the fruit unfit for use; after a thorough washing the tomatoes should be acceptable.

You get them on feed at half the cost with our pre-starter.

The difference is dramatic. You save half the cost of a commercial pre-starter when you build your own with Vigortone's Creep Wean No. 3.

Your figures will prove it.

First, you save because you use feedstuffs grown on your own farm; no need to purchase someone else's grain.

Next, you fortify these feedstuffs with Vigortone's Creep Wean Pre-Mix No. 3, a potent combination of all the vitamins, minerals and amino acids needed for optimum nutrition.

Finally, you do the grinding and mixing yourself - FRESH - adding the right amount of soybean meal for proper protein levels. And if a health problem does arise, you can medicate immediately.

There you have it: a highly fortified pre-starter that saves you half the cost of a commercial brand.

Vigortone swine feeding programs offer cost savings in your starter, growing and finishing rations as well.

You'll save substantially over commercial starters with Vigortone 16% starter using your own grain - no fillers. And Vigortone's corn-soy growing and finishing programs combine economy and quick-to-market-weight nutrition.

Now is the time to compare.
See your Vigortone dealer soon. He's ready to compare the performance of Vigortone's low-cost swine feeding programs with any other you name.

Livestock market and auction news

Omaha Cattle

July 27, 1978

Cattle - Through midweek, slaughter steers were 50-1.00 higher than previous Wednesday after losing part of a sharper early week advance. Heifers were 1.00-2.00 higher. Cows closed 4.00-5.00 higher, bulls 1.00-2.00 higher.

Four day receipts 12,900 compared 14,900 previous week and 17,400 a year ago. Packers were in need of immediate slaughter requrements and responded to small early week marketings by pushing slaughter steer and heifer prices up sharply. Although marketings and slaughter remained moderate, packers turned cautious again by this midweek. Some local packers continued out of the market due to plant renovation and vacations. Slaughter steers made up approximately 45 per cent of the total weeks receipts, heifers 33 per cent with a fair percentage choice included. Cows made up 7 per cent and feeders 14 per cent of the week's total.

Holstein Club tour set

LANCASTER — The Lancaster County Junior Holstein Club is sponsoring a tour to several herds in Maryland on August 15. Reservations should be sent in as soon as possible to Linda Kauffman, Elizabethtown R1, 17022. The deadline for doing so is August 4.

The tour is open to any member of the Club, adult, or friend who likes to see good cows. The cost of the tour is $12 per person. It is suggested that tour participants also bring a bag lunch and a few dollars for an evening meal.

The bus will be leaving the Lancaster Farm and Home Center at 7 a.m.

Herds to be visited include JPG Holsteins, My Lady's Manor Farm, Kinglea Holsteins, and Fair Hill Farm.

Junior and senior showmanship champions were Barbara Herr and Steven Strauss. Miss Herr won the junior division championship and Strauss took the senior division title.

Larry Mullen, left, entered the champion hog in the carcass on-rail competition of the Lancaster County FFA hog show. Craig Harnish, right, entered the reserve champion.

Good shows that this was the first time Tom ever showed a hog.

Tuesday was also a good day for Kerry Boyd, Ephrata R5. Although none of Boyd's 12 hogs took grand champion, he did have the lightweight champion, the medium weight reserve champion, and both the champion and reserve champion heavyweight animals. The champion heavyweight then went on to be named the reserve champion of the entire show.

Along with Boyd's four champions, he took home five first-place and two second-place ribbons out of the 13 weight classes. Boyd also found satisfaction in showing the champion pen of 10.

Although he had three breed champions in the 1974 FFA show Boyd considered Tuesday as "definitely the best day of my life for showing hogs."

Good's grand champion hog was out of a York/Landrace sow and a Duroc boar as were four of the five hogs he entered in Tuesday's competition. The gilt was less than five months old and was the seventh pig to farrow in the new house.

"It's a real fast growing pig," Good pointed out. "I was afraid it wouldn't make weight so I pushed it."

When asked how he managed to do so well in his first year, the easy-going youth smiled and modestly replied, "The pigs won the show, I didn't."

Boyd's 240 pound reserve champion was a Chester White/Duroc crossbred. The breeder was Tony Folker of Pork Chop Farm, New Holland R2 The animal was purchased at the New Holland Annual FFA Feeder Pig Show and Sale held in April.

This year Boyd and his wife Deborah, who he credits with much of his success, put a lot of extra work into the hogs. "This year I decided to see if putting the extra money into top quality stock would make any dif-

Stonylonesome Farm hosts Pa. Angus Field Day

By JOANNE SPAHR

STAHLSTOWN—The breathtaking green landscape of the Laurel Mountains in Westmoreland County was the setting for this year's Pennsylvania Angus Field Day held on July 21 and 22 at Stonylonesome Farm, Stahlstown, Pa.

An educational and social gathering hosted by William H. Rea, owner of Stonylonesome Farm, the weekend featured cattle judging contests, square dancing, panel discussions, and the group's annual meeting — not to mention good old-time visiting among members.

Among the main attractions of Saturday morning's program was a heifer judging contest. Sarah Fretz, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fretz, Zionsville, Pa., Lehigh County, was the highest overall individual judge in the 4-H division with 191 out of 200 points. All totaled, 38 individuals from eight counties competed in that contest.

Miss Fretz also placed highest in the oral reasons segment of the judging contest. To demonstrate this part of the competition, the Pennsylvania Angus Queen recited her reasons to the approximately 300 Pennsylvania Angus Association members present.

The top team in the judging contest came from Westmoreland County. Fayette County's group came in second and Beaver, third.

Gilman Stewart, president of the National Angus Association, was also part of Saturday's program. Stewart touched on the enthusiasm now being generated in the industry stating that increased prices and a need for the product have spurred cattlemen on. He reported that some breeders have sold all their bulls and have even exhausted their supply of yearling bulls.

Stewart also cautioned the group to keep the Angus breed image the way it is to keep the price.

"The Angus breed has the reputation for good marbling and for being the best mothering breed," he said "If we get away from that it will hurt us."

During the day the breeders were also intermittantly encouraged to put their bull calf crop on the Penn State test program.

To acquaint the Angus breeders from around the state with Rea's operation, a farm tour was slated in the morning. Stonylonesome Farm spreads out over 400 acres — 200 of which is owned and 200 which is leased from adjoining neighbors. All the land is in grass and is evenly divided between pasture and hay.

The cow herd has gradually grown to 80 bred females carried over the Winter plus 20 to 30 heifer calves and five to 10 bulls In addition, Stonylonesome has three 2-year-old herd sires: HF Marathon, HF Career 186, and Colossal SL28.

The 80 cows are Wintered in the fields and fed grass silage, hay, and protein supplement. The barn is used for calving starting in about mid-February. About 35 to 40 cows are artificially bred and the balance are bred to the herd sires.

Through A.I., Stonylonesome uses Contact of Wye, Linebacker, and Fascinator.

"We're breeding for a larger type animal and for faster rate of gain," explained Rea, "We have to compete with the bigger breeds."

Two 1977 bull calves did well in the Pennsylvania and Maryland bull tests, resulting in the highest selling Angus bull in each case.

At the state Angus association meeting on Friday evening, officers and directors were elected.

Serving as president next year will be Walter Laird, Dover; vice president, Conrad Grove, Glenmoore; and secretary-treasurer, Patricia Holloway, Seven Valleys Rl.

New directors are Elizabeth Geer, Ridgemeade Farm, Fairview; Dr. M. Radovic, Falconridge Farm, McDonald; Gordon Shive, York; Carlton Huff, Erdenheim Farm, Lafayette Hills.

Gospel concert set

HIGHVILLE – A public Gospel Concert is being held on Saturday, August 5, at the Fort Holbrook Fire Base, near Highville. The Fire Base is the headquarters station of The Lancaster Forest Fire Crew, and is located on Oak Road, just off River Road, in Manor Township, between the villages of Highville and Safe Harbor.

The concert has been conceived by a team of teenage Summer CETA workers who are employed at the forest fire station during a part of the Summer through the Federal Youth Employment Opportunity Program.

Concert plans include providing a program of inspirational music all afternoon, from two p.m. on. Two groups have already been lined up and the teen coordinators for the event are hoping to hear from several more. Groups or individuals who would like to participate in the program are invited to call The Lancaster Forest Fire Crew, at 717-872-7298.

Berks 4-H'ers plan fair

LEESPORT -- Berks County 4-H'ers are especially excited this year as they plan for their annual 4-H Fair. This year the fair will be held August 24 at the Berks County 4-H and Agricultural Centers, near here.

Featured will be exhibits and shows of vegetables, flowers and small animals such as rabbits and guinea pigs, a baking contest, and various other club exhibits. Also scheduled for the day are fish and bike rodeos, talent contest. volleyball contest, fun carnival, pie eating contest, and laugh olympics.

Registration will begin at 9:00 a.m. and club exhibits will open to the public at 1:00 p.m. Reservations for a chicken barbecue which will be served from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m. can be obtained from Ann E. Holcombe, Box 135 Mohrsville, Pa. 19541. Deadline for reservations is August 9 and cost $3.50 for adults and $2.50 for children under 12.

During the evening the 4-H'ers have scheduled a rocket launch, model airplane show, Gong Show, Fashion Revue, awards presentation and baked goods auction.

Pesticide control bill passed by committee

WASHINGTON, D.C. – A Senate-House Conference Committee has reached agreement on a long-stalled bill to overhaul and extend the government's pesticide use and control program.

Conferees stamped approval on a complex bill designed to simplify procedures that have bogged down administration of the pesticide program authorized under the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act.

The bill will give states a larger role in the pesticide program than they have under existing law.

While leaving ultimate responsibility for administration of the Act in the Federal Environmental Protection Agency, the conference-approved bill will allow qualifying states to exercise primary enforcement responsibility over use and control of approved pesticides.

Senator Herman E. Talmadge (D-Ga.), Chairman of the Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry and senior Senate member of the Conference, said the bill strikes a sound balance between the safe use of insect and pest control chemicals and protection of human health and the environment from harmful pesticide side effects.

A major beneficiary of the bill will be the Nation's farmers who depend heavily on pesticides to control crop-destroying insects.

"The bill will provide efficient machinery for the registration and delivery of pesticides that farmers must have if they are to meet demands placed on them for the production of food and fiber," Talmadge said.

"At the same time, the Conference Committee believes the bill contains adequate safeguards for human health and environmental protection," he said.

The Conference Committee agreement came after months of negotiations. The Senate passed a FIFRA bill a year ago this month, and the House approved a different version of the bill in October. Tedious deliberations were necessary to perfect a final bill that answered environmental, agricultural, enforcement, and state-federal jurisdictional concerns.

The Conference-approved bill now goes back to the House and Senate for final approval.

The bill extends spending authority for pesticide control programs through September 30, 1979. It authorizes spending of $54.4 million in the current fiscal year and up to $70 million for the year ending September 30, 1979.

The major thrust of the legislation is to unclog the machinery created under prior legislation for the control and regulation of pesticides that are deemed essential to the American agricultural system. The 1972 amendments to FIFRA required that all pesticides - some 40,000 - be re-registered and classified by October 21, 1977. However, burdensome procedures have prevented the re-registration process from being realized and only a handful of new registrations have been made since 1972.

The bill would authorize simplified registration procedures by EPA, including "conditional" registration under certain specified conditions and where there would be no unreasonable adverse environmental effect. It would also permit certain specific exemptions from the present prohibition of the pesticide's use that may be inconsistent with its labeling.

The legislation also requires EPA to develop standards for data requirements for "registering" minor use of pesticides - those farmers use on crops of a localized nature. These standards must take into consideration the extent use involved and the impact of the cost of meeting the data requirements on the incentive to develop the data.

The bill would also allow EPA to classify currently-approved pesticides for either "general" or "restricted" use without waiting for the completion of the lengthy re-registration process. Delaying classification until re-registration has been completed could seriously hamper the ability of farmers and other pesticide users to get needed pest-control supplies.

A general provision of the bill would permit the states to exercise primary responsibility for enforcement of FIFRA, provided they have adopted adequate pesticide-use laws, regulations and enforcement procedures. States that now have cooperative enforcement agreements with EPA - approximately 30 - would automatically qualify for primary enforcement under the bill.

The bill also provides for rapid evaluation by EPA of the ability of the remaining states to assume primary enforcement responsibility.

In addition, a state may approve and supervise additional uses of a Federal registered pesticide to meet special local needs, provided the particular uses have not previously been denied or cancelled by EPA.

Another provision of the bill would require EPA to conduct programs for the certification of pesticide applicators in states that do not have their own approved certification programs.

AGRISPON™

Totally Safe — Low Cost

Stimulates
NITROGEN CYCLE
Soil Inoculant

SOIL BALANCING AND OTHER FERTILIZERS

AGRISPON is intended to accelerate the soil's nitrogen cycle to supply nitrogen for the crop.

WHAT IS AGRISPON?

AGRISPON is a biological soil inoculant that stimulates the natural processes in the soil. It helps increase organic matter, build humus and accelerate the nitrogen cycle vital to plant growth.

AGRISPON was developed after 42 years of research and is now being made available commercially. It is a living culture of micro-organisms that includes fungi, algae and associated soil bacteria, many of which are in spore form.

AGRISPON is not derived from petroleum products. It is totally natural, totally safe, and is designed to help protect and conserve our natural resources.

HOW AGRISPON WORKS

AGRISPON stimulates the nitrogen cycle which takes nitrogen from the air (the air we breathe consists of 70 to 78% nitrogen), converts it to a usable form, and stores it in the soil until needed by the plant(s). Also, as billions of microorganisms go through the process of living and dying, the accumulation of their bodies adds protein-derived nitrogen and contributes to humus buildup in the soil.

Controlled laboratory tests, field trials and large-scale commercial production have demonstrated that plants treated with AGRISPON grew as well as or better than those treated with (chemical) fertilizer.

Many ag activities

in Chester County. Please read on for details on events of interest to you, including references to related articles elsewhere in this issue.

Also on tap this coming week are several fairs, youth events, cattle shows, at least one plowing contest, a poultry queen pageant, and a convention on natural living. Our farm calendar, on page 10, offers a quick review of all of the activities we have been informed about.

John Yocum, superintendent of Penn State's research facility near Landisville, Lancaster County, extends an invitation to all farmers and agribusinessmen in the area who are interested in learning more about crops and their management.

The event at the Southeastern Field Research Laboratory, as it is officially known, is billed as the major field day of the year. According to Yocum, the program is designed to be of interest to farmers, seedsmen, retailers of farm products, and other persons interested in agriculture. Specialists from Penn State University will be on hand to answer questions. Lunch will be available.

For more details and directions on how to get to that agronomic event, please turn to page 110 of this issue.

Lancaster County's Holstein Field Day, which is detailed on page 115, will be held at the Jay Landis farm, south of Millersville. Activities begin at 10 a.m.

In neighboring Chester County, Holstein breeders will hold their annual get-together at 7 p.m. at the Donald Hostetter farm, east of Oxford along Route 1. Page 32 of last week's edition holds more details

The cattlemen's field day will take place at the Buck and Doe Ranch, which is a part of the famous King Ranch of Texas, and Frey Brothers' cattle operation which is nearby For further details, please turn to page 131.

August 4 is the date of the Lancaster County Poultry Queen Pageant. It will be held in the Farm and Home Center beginning at 7 p.m.

Elizabethtown Young Farmers will hold a plowing contest on Wednesday, August 2, at the Paul Hiestand farm between Maytown and Bainbridge; a farm visitation day will be held in Adams County on Saturday, August 5, (See page 96 for details); and the Morrison's Cove Dairy Show will begin in Martinsburg, Blair County, on August 1.

Neighboring Maryland will hold a Farm Family Field Day at the University of Maryland's agronomy-dairy research farm on August 3. Taking part in that event will be representatives from Via-Pax, embryo transplant specialists from Elizabethtown, Lancaster County. Details are printed on page 96.

Area fairs which open their tents and gates this weekend include the Keystone Grange Fair at Trappe, the Goshen Country Fair in West Chester, and a number of 4-H Fairs in several Maryland counties. The Farm Calendar on page 10 lists them.

An event which is going on today (July 29) is the Adams County Beef Field Day, scheduled to get underway at 9 p.m. at Pigeon Hill Farm near Abbottstown. Another beef cattle event is the Maryland Angus Association Breeders' Show at the Montgomery County Fairgrounds in Gaithersburg. It gets underway tomorrow (Sunday).

The following Sunday, August 6, marks the opening of the Lebanon Fair.

For those interested in natural foods and natural living, the First Annual Natural Living Convention takes place at Bucknell University next weekend. We have details on page 99 of this week's issue.

Whichever event or events you decide to go to, we hope you'll find it was time well spent.

Binkley wins plowing trophy

Harvey Sauder, New Holland R1, competed in the level land division with plows with four or more mordboards. His two previous wins in other years had also been in the same class.

Binkley calls himself a general type famrer and farms 150 acres of corn and alfalfa near Columbia He contributed his success in the contest to taking his time. He competes for the enjoyment of the contest, but wished there would have been more competition

Sauder, who walked away with the second prize inthe contest, is a dairy farmer who has been entering the plowing contest for nine or ten years, he reckoned. He used a tractor in the contest he had bought only a month ago and a plow which he had picked up that morning and noted that he felt he could have made more of a contest if he would have been more accustomed to using his equipment. As it was he scored 486 points to Binkley's 518. Perfect score in the cntest would have been 600.

Judges for the plowing contest were three agriculture teachers from Lancaster County, including Charles Ackley, Ephrata, Elvin Hess, Elizabethtown, and August Birchler, Penn Manor They used uniformity of depth and width of the furrows and straightness of the rows as the basis of their decision

Binkley is planning on entering the state competition to be held at Penn State in August

In the land judging contest, two FFA'ers tied for the first place honors. Larry Martin, East Earl R1, and David Holzhauer, Holtwood R1, both received identical scores in winning the top honors

Larry, the son of Mr. and Mrs Raymond Martin is a member of the Grassland FFA. He had previously competed in the county land judging and his chapter's contest but this was the first that he had won

The son of Mr and Mrs Robert S Holzhauer, David had won the county land judging contest and participated in the state contest before earning his top position at this contest.

Third place went to Tina Bucher, Solanco; fourth was given to Sandra Weaver, New Holland, fifth went to Steve Herr, Solanco, and Troy Groff, Solanco, placed sixth.

As part of the festivities of the Conservation field day, a greased pig contest, and two rooster chases were held for the youngsters in the group.

Merv Shenk, Manheim, the 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shenk won the greased pig contest after that animal led him and all the other contestants on a merry chase throughout the area. He stated that he's going to raise the pig and thought that the hardest part of a greased pig contest for him is trying to hang onto the animal after he gets his hands on it.

John, 9, and Melvin Sauder, 7, the sons of Mr. Harvey Sauder, added to their father's placing earlier by chasing down both roosters that were allowed loose for someone to catch. This is Melvin's third year at being the top chicken catcher but John proudly stated that this was his first winning. They explained their success by telling that all one has to do is run the chicken into the ground to catch it.

Water Resource Policy Comm. seeks water problem solution

HARRISBURG – The Water Resources Policy Advisory Committee, created by the Department of Environmental Resources to search for answers to water-related problems facing the Commonwealth, will meet again on August 3 to continue its discussion of surface and ground water allocation.

The meeting opens at 10 a.m. in the Hotel Hershey, Hershey.

The committee started its discussion of the topic at its June 1 meeting but reached a conclusion only that a resolution should be prepared to seek high priority funding from the General Assembly for detailed groundwater studies.

That resolution should be available at the August 3 meeting for approval.

Committee members noted in June that there is a pressing need for detailed ground-water management data and plans and said the Department of Environmental Resources has been unable to do such work because of a lack of sufficient budget appropriations.

In their disucssions, commitee members generally agreed that the Commonwealth needs to consider a law covering water allocation and withdrawal which would look at both surface and ground water and would have applicability throughout the State rather than just in the two areas–the Delaware and Monongahela River Basins–where the most pressing problems now exist.

The August 3 discussion is expected to continue on this topic and to look at more specific details of an allocation plan, who should administer any allocation plan, what mechanisms should be used to resolve disputes between water users, what relationship an allocation plan should have with basin commission plans and project reviews and what legal or institutional programs should be considered to encourage or require water conservation.

Committee members also will select a chairperson for the group, choosing from among candidates who represent the Pennsylvania Bar Association, Council of Farm Organizations, and League of Women Voters.

Over 9%

yield on your money... from a Government-Guaranteed Security. And the income is paid monthly.

For safety and high income paid monthly it's difficult to match GNMA Mortgage-Backed Certificates They bear a U S Government guarantee on "the timely payment of both principal and interest" Since many GNMA's are now selling at discount from the original issue price, the face amount interest (varying upwards from 6%) actually yields over 9% for current investors

What Are GNMA Certificates?

GNMA stands for Government National Mortgage Association, a part of the U S Department of Housing and Urban Development The money raised by the sale of these GNMA Guaranteed Certificates is used to finance mortgages GNMA guarantees timely payment of both principal and interest on these Mortgage-Backed Certificates, and its guarantee is backed by the full faith and credit of the government of the United States of America

When you buy a Certificate, sold by Kidder, Peabody in units of $25,000, you purchase a share of a pool of insured FHA or VA mortgages Each certificate issued against the specific "pool" is GNMA guaranteed You enjoy a number of advantages which were designed initially to attract money from pension funds and other institutional investors into residential and health-care facility mortgages But if you're a substantial individual investor, you also can obtain all the benefits for your own personal "pension fund"

Advantages of GNMA Certificates

- They currently yield over 9% compared to an approximate 8¼% on comparable maturing U S Government Bonds
- Principal and interest, and their timely payment, are guaranteed by the U S Government
- Interest and principal comes in convenient monthly payments ideal for wealthy retired people or those interested in current income with a high degree of safety
- There are none of the traditional and often necessary burdens of ordinary mortgage investment no legal expenses, no administrative work, and no worry about late payments
- GNMA Certificates can be turned into cash more readily than ordinary mortgages
- No interest penalty is charged if certificates are sold prior to maturity
- Attractive investment for large and small corporations with excess cash

How and When to Treat Septic Systems

If the septic system has required pumping as often as once a year the probability is that grease and solids have been going out into the seepage area thus clogging or partially clogging the surrounding soil and restricting drainage

Even where pumping has not been necessary if the system is more than two or three years old the probability is that some grease and solids have escaped into the outflow and trouble is not far off So the treatment schedule listed below will be applicable in either situation

FOR EVERY 4 PEOPLE USING THE SEPTIC SYSTEM
1 Start the MEDINA ACTINA program by flushing one pint ACTINA into any drain leading directly into the septic tank
2 Two weeks later repeat the above treatment
3 Thereafter use one half pint each month Treat regularly

If the septic system has a distribution box between the septic tank and the seepage area treat with ACTINA in the distribution box as follows

1 For every 50 people using the septic system pour 1 gallon ACTINA into the distribution box
2 Three weeks later repeat the same treatment

This low cost preventive maintenance program will help to preserve the useful life of the investment in the septic system and will reduce the necessity to pump out solids to an absolute minimum When you consider the high cost of replacing the septic system or any part of it the investment you will be making in ACTINA should reduce costs and show a worthwhile dividend

The above girls are all members of the Pennsylvania dairy royalty -- either as county dairy princesses or alternates. The 43 princesses and 18 alternates attended a three-day milk promotion seminar held at Elizabethtown College.

Dairy princesses attend training seminar

ELIZABETHTOWN, Pa – Forty-three farm girls from Pennsylvania gathered at Elizabethtown College last week to learn how to be the best possible spokesmen for the dairy industry.

The 43 young ladies were the newly-elected dairy princesses representing 49 Pennsylvania counties Among the 116 persons present were many alternate dairy princesses who are playing an increasingly important role in spreading the word about nutritious dairy products, and many adult committee members who shared with each other ideas for effective milk promotion

According to Mrs Joyce Graybill, commodity promotion supervisor for the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, this is the largest number ever to participate in a seminar in its eight-year history.

The seminar is designed to help the girls learn the basic facts about the dairy industry in Pennsylvania and nutritional information about dairy products so that they will be well-informed spokesmen throughout their reign A large part of the three-day program is devoted to personal improvement workshops, stressing proper hair care, and make-up, and proper dress for the many appearances they will make. They also learn general tips on appearing before the public Many of the workshops were conducted by Lancaster county business people

One useful segment of the seminar was devoted to presentations by the 43 dairy princesses. Each girl prepared a three-to-five minute program aimed at a specific audience and designed to inform and educate about the dairy industry. Grover Gouker, manager of the Dale Carnegie program, provided constructive ideas on public speaking.

Mrs. Graybill noted, "One important result of the seminar is that it generates enthusiasm, and allows the counties to share ideas and learn what other counties are doing The committee people learn some of the things which work for other

Md. livestock club to sponsor sale

FAIR HILL, Md – How would you like to bite into a nice juicy leg of lamb or pork chop? Buy a lamp or pig at the Cecil County Fair and you can do just that!

The Cecil County 4-H Livestock Club will hold a market lamb and hog sale on August 2 at 6 p m at the Fair Hill, Md. fairgrounds. Their project animals will be shown Tuesday afternoon with 12 lambs and six pigs sold the following evening

The 4-H club was formed last October, and the members have devoted many hours this first year working with their projects and learning about the livestock industry Now the animals are ready to market and the club will hold their first 4-H livestock sale at the county fair

Businesses, organizations and private individuals are invited to come and support the 4-H'ers in this project Any purchase can be used as a tax deduction and as a means of advertisement

The buyers of the champion and reserve champion lamb and hog will have their pictures taken with the animal These photos will be run in several newspapers All buyers will also be listed in advertisements A sign will be posted at the County Fair listing the buyers and will be displayed the remainder of the fair this year and at next year's fair until the sale A banner will be given to the buyers of the champion and reserve champion lamb and hog with all buyers receiving ribbons

If you would like to support the 4-H'ers but have no use for the animal, one can still be purchased The animal can be resold at the going market rate and the original purchaser will have to pay only the difference between market price received and the original bid Again, this would be tax deductible

Watermelon's appearance tells of its taste

YORK – Selecting a watermelon for quality and flavor is difficult even for the most experienced shopper No absolute formula exists, but the use of several factors in judging a watermelon increases one's chances of success

In cut watermelon, a person looks for firm juicy flesh with good red color. suggest experts. Flesh should be free from white streaks and have dark brown or black seeds. Watermelons with pale colored flesh, white streaks, and whitish seeds indicate the melon isn't ripe Dry, mealy flesh or watery, stringy flesh are signs of overripeness or aging after harvest.

If one is buying an uncut watermelon, he must rely only on appearance The watermelon's surface should be smooth and the rind should have a slight dullness or dusty look. The dusty appearance is a surface "bloom" that indicates maturity The underside or "belly" of the melon should have a creamy white to yellow color. A greenish white cast indicates that the melon isn't quite ripe yet groups, and everyone has a chance to gain new insight into possible promotional ideas "

The ends of the melon should be filled out. One should avoid melons with misshapened or pointy ends.

Mrs Robert H Kauffman, Elizabethtown R1, was coordinator for the program which began Sunday evening and concluded Wednesday at noon Dairy products served during scheduled milk breaks were provided by Graybill's Dairy, Kreider Dairy Farms, Ridge View Farms and Ice Cream Parlor, Elm Tree Acres Dairy, Lehigh Valley Cooperative Farmers, Atlantic Breeders Cooperative and Penn Springs Farm.

Each of the 43 dairy princesses will be a contestant in the state contest held in conjunction with the All-American Dairy Show in September showmen of the breed. Their parents own close to 100 Guernsey cows. Both girls help with the chores morning ard evening. They have been 4-H Club members for seven and eight years, respectively.

Connie and Carol Balmer of Lititz are champion exhibitors who own champion Guernseys.

In the senior yearling class, Jay Garber was in the lead again, followed by Mary Ann Witmer, Sue Ann Rohrer, and Gerald Garber, in that order.

The Balmer girls dominated the aged cow class, winning both top places, and then going on to win senior and grand champion banners with the same animals.

The champion Guernsey Junior Showman was Jay Garber; Mary Ann Witmer placed second. In the senior division, Connie and Carol Balmer won the titles.

Results of the other colored breed shows were as follows:

BROWN SWISS

Lucinda Trimble, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Trimble, Peach Bottom, won the junior championship ribbon with an intermediate calf. Jacqueline Kreider was the proud owner of the reserve junior champion, a junior yearling. The senior and grand champion belonged to Sandra Schmuck of Peach Bottom, who exhibited a 2-year old. Judy Witmer won the reserve banner on both counts. The champion junior showman was Lucinda Trimble, while Judy Witmer picked up the reserve ribbon.

JERSEYS

A 2-year old brought into the ring by Matt Arrowsmith, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Arrowsmith, was the queen of the show, edging an entry by brother, Tom, who won the reserve honor.

Tom's animal was also the junior champion, while Gay Bukowski of Manheim won the reserve spot.

Class winners were:

AYRSHIRES

Karen and Sandra Schmuck had the grand and reserve grand champion, repectively. Sandra's entry was also the junior champion. Reserve junior champion honors went to Karen. Champion junior showman was Anita Brommer, the reserve champion was Kristina Esbenshade, while senior showman honors went to the Schmuck girls.

ference," Boyd stated. So, he purchased 10 feeder pigs at an average of $75 a piece. Then he put extra work into them and came out with 14 champion ribbons and plaques. He was also named the third place breeder/exhibitor and took a second placing in the senior fitting contest. Boyd is currently in partnership with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Boyd, Ephrata.

Barbara Herr was also a multiple winner in Tuesday's competition. The 15-year-old first year FFA member was named champion fitter and showman in the junior division. Her brother Chris shared the limelight with the senior champion fitter honors. Both students are the children of Dr and Mrs. Robert Herr, Narvon. Earning the senior showmanship champion title was Steven Strauss, the 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Strauss. This accomplished hog showman was also named the reserve champion of the breeder/exhibitor class.

In Wednesday's On-Rail carcass class Larry Mullen, Bainbridge Rl, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Mullen, Sr., took the grand championship title after earning the reserve slot on Tuesday's On-Foot competition. Coming in second to Mullen in the On-Rail contest was Craig Harnish, Lancaster, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl G. Harnish. Mullen is from Elizabethtown High School and Harnish is from Penn Manor.

In Tuesday's sale which followed the show, Hatfield Packing Company, Hatfield, purchased the grand champion for $2.50 per pound, or a total of $525 The reserve champ also went to Hatfield for $1 32 per pound. That champion totaled $316.80 The average weight in Tuesday's sale was 217 pound with the average price $51 42 with the champions Without the champions, the sale average was $50 34 The total sale dollars came to $29,214 07

Along with Hatfield Packing, other firms and individuals who supported the sale included. McCoy Cattle Company, Kunzler Meats, Dale Stoltzfus, Penn Packing, Willow Valley Restaurant, Lloyd Hoover, Jerry Rutter, White Oak Mill, Ed Prosser, A and B Packing, Leidy Packing, Esskay, Stoltzfus Meats, Economy Locker, Bill Boley, Lancaster County Farm Restaurant, and Walter M. Dunlap and Sons

Trophies and plaques for the show were provided by Pennfield Corporation, Rohrerstown; Gehman's Feed Mill, Denver; Pork Chop Farms, New Holland R2; and the Lancaster County Swine Producer's Association. The Red Rose Chapter of the Future Farmers of America sponsored Wednesday's carcass show

Judge for this year's event was Henry Gruber, head buyer for Arbogast and Bastian, Allentown.

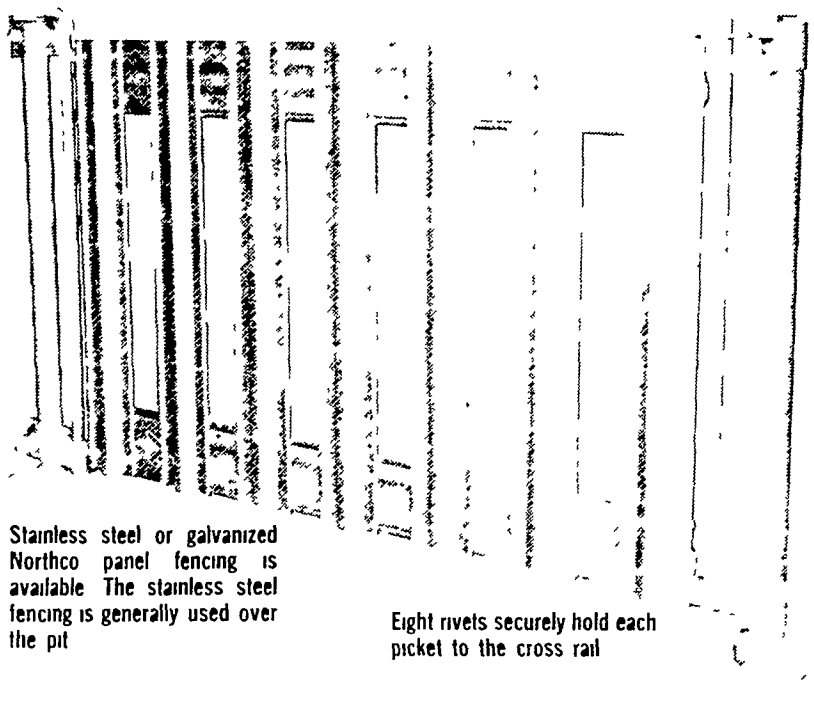
NORTHCO FARM AUTOMATION SYSTEMS

HOG FENCING BUILT TO LAST AND LAST!

NORTHCO PANEL FENCING

NORTHCO PANEL FENCING is available in stainless steel or galvanized Stainless Steel panels are generally used over the pit

Panels are designed with a positive locking system and can easily be opened with Northco's gate closure rod.



Stainless steel or galvanized Northco panel fencing is available The stainless steel fencing is generally used over the pit

Eight rivets securely hold each picket to the cross rail

HOG PANEL FENCING

MADE FOR CONFINEMENT

- Northco Hog Panel Fencing is built specifically for hog confinement by the experts in the field That's why Northco Panel Fencing has advantages like these
- UPRIGHT PICKETS—Hogs can't climb the upright pickets and the "open" design of Northco Panel Fencing aids the ventilation system
- EVERY SECTION SWINGS—The closure rod can be quickly removed so every fencing section in the building will act as a gate
- EASY TO INSTALL—Hinges allow for some length adjustment to simplify installation Also Northco Panel Fencing can be ordered in sizes to fit almost any hog building including both total confinement and open front systems

The Northco Hog Experts have designed SUCCESSFUL hog confinement systems since 1963. This experience is part of the reason Northco is considered the leader in hog confinement.

+LOSS OF PALATABILITY BY POOR FERMENTATION CAN EASILY REDUCE RATE OF GAIN OR MILK PRODUCTION BY 25 PERCENT
+LOSS OF SOLUBLE NUTRIENTS BY SEEPAGE HEATING RELEASES JUICE IN THE SILO IN THE SAME WAY AS COOKING MEAT AND VEGETABLES
+SILAGE UNLOADS HARDER AND SLOWER BECAUSE EXCESS JUICING MATS IT DOWN AND ALSO RESULTS IN HARDER FREEZING

WHEN DO THESE LOSSES HAPPEN?
IMMEDIATELY AFTER FILLING THE SILO THE FIRST 3 TO 7 DAYS ARE MOST CRITICAL DURING WHICH TIME THE HEATING REACHES ITS PEAK

WHAT CAUSES THIS HEATING?
OXIDATION FROM THE AIR THAT IS BLOWN INTO THE SILAGE AND TRAPPED DURING FILLING AND THE OXYGEN CONTAINED IN THE PLANT THE DRIER THE SILAGE THE COARSER (AND HARDER) IT CHOPS THE POORER IT PACKS, THE MORE AIR IS TRAPPED, AND THE HOTTER IT GETS

WHY?
OXYGEN IS WHAT CAUSES ANY FOOD TO SPOIL AND IT MUST BE ELIMINATED FROM THE SILAGE BEFORE PRESERVATION CAN TAKE PLACE IN THE NORMAL PROCESS OF ELIMINATION A CHEMICAL REACTION OCCURS IN WHICH OXYGEN COMBINES WITH READILY AVAILABLE STARCHES AND SUGARS TO LITERALLY BURN ITSELF OUT

DOES OXYGEN FREE SEALED STORAGE PREVENT THIS?
OXYGEN FREE STORAGE IS NOT OXYGEN FREE UNTIL AFTER THIS OXIDATION PERIOD IS OVER COMMON SENSE TELLS YOU THAT JUST AS MUCH AIR IS TRAPPED DURING THE FILLING PROCESS REGARDLESS OF TYPE OF STORAGE THE SAME THING HAPPENS AS EXPLAINED ABOVE THE DIFFERENCE IS THAT ONCE THE FILLER OPENING IS CLOSED AND THE SILO IS ACTUALLY SEALED NO ADDITIONAL AIR CAN ENTER SURFACE SPOILAGE AND SILO LEAKAGE IS NOT A PROBLEM

STOP THESE LOSSES USE SILO KING

WHY DOES SILO-KING WORK?
SILO-KING CONTAINS A POTENT COMBINATION OF THE SAME ANTI-OXIDENTS USED TO PRESERVE HUNDREDS OF FOOD ITEMS IN OUR SUPER MARKETS SILO-KING ALSO CONTAINS A POTENT COMBINATION OF FOOD GRADE EXZYMES AND FLAVORS

THIS COMBINATION OF ANTI-OXIDANTS AND ENZYMES RESULTS IN A MUCH GREATER PRESERVATIVE EFFECT

THEY ABSORB THE ATMOSPHERIC AND HYDROLYTIC OXYGEN ENERGY IN THE SILAGE TO PREVENT THE INITIAL OXIDATION WHICH CAUSES THE HEATING AND THE LOSSES

THEY ALSO UTILIZE MOISTURE AVAILABLE IN THE SILAGE TO HELP SYNTHESIZE MORE SOLUBLE SUGARS WHICH HELP PRODUCE A HIGH QUALITY, SWEET SMELLING SILAGE WITH EXCEPTIONAL PALATABILITY

BY REDUCING THE LEVEL OF OXIDATION, TEMPERATURE OF THE SILAGE IS MAINTAINED IN A RANGE OF 100 TO 110 DEGREES

THIS IS THE IDEAL TEMPERATURE FOR FERMENTATION. THIS RESULTS IN A HIGHER PH [LOWER ACIDITY] AND A SILAGE OF VERY HIGH QUALITY

Vaniman resigns

BOZEMAN, Mont – Don Vaniman, executive secretary of the American Simmental Association since late 1969, has resigned, according to Colville C Jackson Jr , ASA president

The ASA executive committee, meeting July 7, accepted Vaniman's resignation and praised him for his work in building the association Dr. Earl B Peterson, executive administrator of ASA since January 1975 has been named acting executive secretary

According to Vaniman, one of his greatest satisfactions was establishment of the annual National Simmental Sire Summary–the first comparative performance report of all sires used within a beef breed

Harvested rye crop looks good

LITITZ — Those farmers who are harvesting rye this year seem to be rather happy with their crop, according to those reports received at the Lancaster Farming. Yields per acre seem to be up generally and the straw taken from the field is of good quality and large quanity.

Warren Shenk, Mount Joy R3, originally wasn't planning to let his rye stand, but it looked better than some of his barley so he did. It was planted in potato ground and he thought the reason it did so well was because it was planted early in August of last year. He used a fine rye variety and got 45.8 bushels perr acre, calling his crop very good. Off of his 3½ acres, he also took off almost eight tons straw.

Jeff Frey, who combines in the Willow Street and Lampeter area of Lancaster County, too thought that the rye loked fairly good in that area. He said that now there is some grass coming up in it, making it more difficult to harvest, but noted that the straw yields have been very good, better than wheat and barley.

From the Mechanicsburg and Carlisle area came reports of fairly good harvests, some as high as almost 50 bushels per acre. One man called the crop very tall and decent although he added that there is grass in some fields, and some of the rye was down due to storm damage.

Most of the rye that is harvested will be sold to be used as seed, either for use as a straight cover crop or both a cover crop over the Winter to be used for silage in the Spring.

Two herds tie in June DHIA

TAMAQUA – The herds of Heisler Brothers, Tamaqua R1; and the Suntrail Dairy Farm, Pitman R1, tied for the highest milk fat in Schuylkill County for the month of June, 1978, according to information released by Penn State and J. Allan Shoener, county agent.

Production was given as the average production per cow per day. Both Heisler Brothers and Suntrail Dairy Farm went on record with 2.03 lbs. of milkfat per day per cow. Third highest herd was a tie also, between John P. Leatherman, Tamaqua R1, and Miller & Rex, Inc., Andreas R1. Both had 1 95 lbs. per milkfat per day.

Bruce Leatherman and Carl J. Snyder had a tie for the highest lbs. of milkfat from an individual cow. Leatherman's Lady and Snyder's Frona both recorded 883 lbs. of milkfat in June.

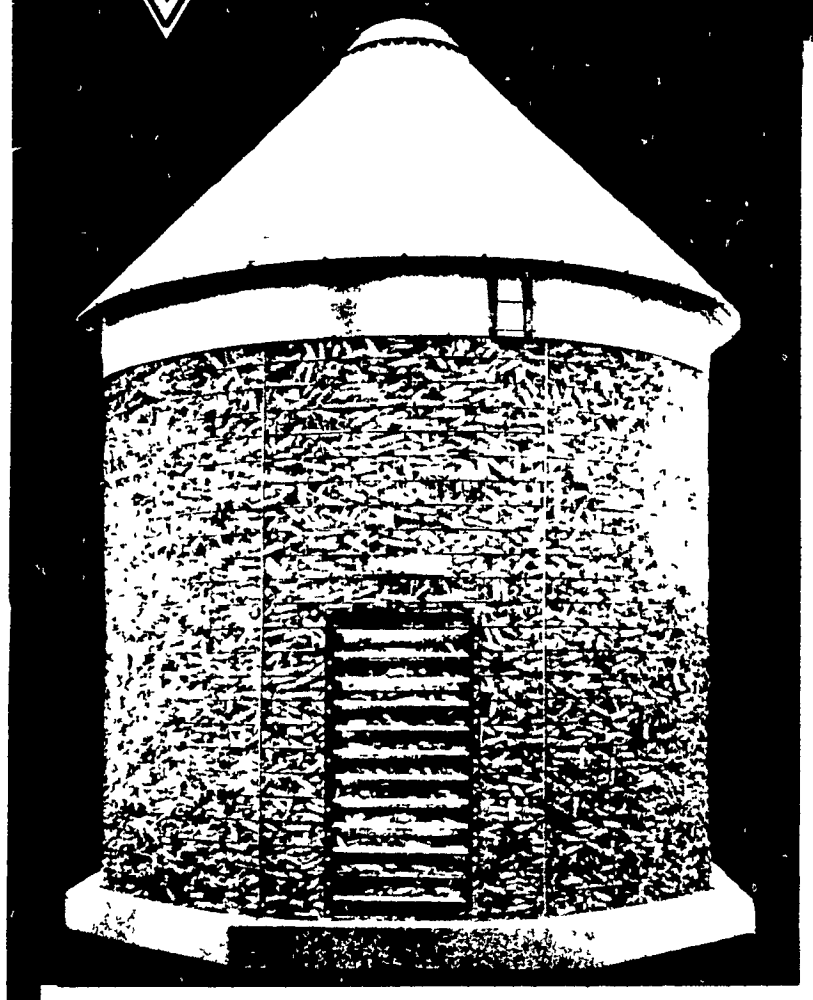
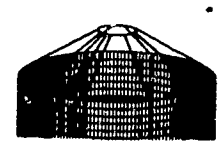
BAR-LOK CORN CRIBS!



The Advantages of Speedy Corn Cribs

1. Easy to Erect
Speedy's Corn Crib goes up fast and easy because of roof rafters and Bar-Lok side panels. The steeply pitched roof pushes the corn to the edges—NO WASTED SPACE!

Step 1 — Bar-Lok Construction saves you time — gives you a strong, sturdy crib .Crib wire panels are interlaced to form an eye A 13'x3/8" rod is then inserted through the eye and pushed down to the foundation Easy, simple, fast construction



Step 2 — Rafters are bolted to assembled rafter ring Now you're ready to put the roof panels on Rafters assure you of proper roof panel placement the first time No wooden framework to build

2. Wide Selection
There is a Speedy Crib for every farm need, priced right for every budget.
- Choice of 900, 1200 or 1700 Bushel Sizes.
- 5 or 2 Gauge Wire Mesh Side Panels.

3. Durable
The Speedy 5 Gauge Crib won't bulge or sag—stands straight and tall year after year. For extra strength and durability get the Speedy 2 Gauge Crib—outlasts other cribs—even with full capacity loads. Galvanized wire, not aluminum paint.

4. Save Money and Energy
Corn stored in a Speedy Crib is dried by Mother Nature without the use of costly energy. This saves money and also helps conserve our scarce energy resources.

YOUR BEST BET ... FEED IT WET!

energy saver.

When we say "energy saver," we're talking about two kinds... the kind you use, and the kind your dryer uses. With Harvestore® limited-oxygen storage, there's no need to dry your grain at all, if you plan to feed it. Numerous studies have shown that high moisture grain makes excellent livestock feed and is highly palatable.

By storing grain at high moisture content you've not only saved the costs and effort of putting it through a dryer, but you have the start of a completely automated feeding system. That can really save you a lot of time and energy.

Best of all, a Harvestore automated feeding system is not only an excellent investment, but one that pays for itself - with interest - usually in five years or less. Why not get in touch and get all the details.

Look at Harvestore® this year.

NEW WAYNE® CALFNIP® MILK REPLACER: IT TAKES THE HASSLE OUT OF REPLACER MIXING.

New formula Wayne Calfnip milk replacer—the best has been made better. It mixes in seconds—every time—and stays mixed. No clogging of nipples, easier cleaning of pails or bottles.

You give your calves the top nutrition which has made Calfnip a leader, without the slow mixing headaches which have been common to milk replacers.

Yet new Calfnip has the all-milk protein which made the name famous, plus an optimum level of fat for energy, vitamins and antibiotics to protect calf health.

It's all possible because of a new selection of ingredients and quality control at the human food level. You simply can't give your little heifers a stronger start towards becoming fast-maturing herd replacements.

SPECIAL FOR FERMENTED COLOSTRUM FEEDERS.

New Wayne Prenip™ is the convenient ready-mixed bovine colostrum preservative you've been looking for. Just add it for consistent results as you store colostrum for young calf feeding.

See your Wayne Feed Dealer for New Calfnip milk replacer and for Prenip bovine colostrum preservative.

4-H Caravaners have eye-opening experiences in U.S.

Willi (left) and Gerben look at a map on the back steps of the Aker's home where Gerben is visiting.

By SALLY BAIR
Staff Writer

"The hills are different, but pretty - I like it." "All the drinks are so cold." "You have to work to make a living." "I think the United States is one of the best countries in the world for farmers and for the people." "A lot of people have very strong religion."

These are just a few of the many comments made by seven young people from The Netherlands who are visiting Lancaster County for a four-week stay with farm families here. The seven are visiting through the Caravan program of the International 4-H Youth Exchange, and their visits locally were arranged through the Penn State Extension Service. They stopped in Michigan for four weeks prior to coming here. The experience is an eye-opener for both the hosts and the guests.

Four of the seven youths are from dairy farms in The Netherlands, where dairying is a major agricultural industry. The farms, according to at least one guest "Are much more modern" than farms visited in this country. Itske deBoer, 18, and her brother Gerben, 21, are from a 115-acre farm in northern Holland where they milk about 100 black and white cows. Itske explains her theory on why she finds farms more modern in her homeland. "Here you make the old stables better. At home we build new stables."

Itske is being hosted by the Elvin Brenneman family, Mount Joy R1, and Gerben is at the home of the Curtis Akers family, Quarryville R1. They have one brother at home.

Indeed, the deBoer farm is modern, with a slatted floor free stall barn, and a milking parlor where one man milks the 12 cows, six to a side, with the help of an automatic take-off unit. This was built in 1970, deBoer said because it was less work than the pipeline they had in their old barn in 1962.

With the help of some translating and some figuring done earlier by Gerben and Gary it was learned that the deBoer herd produces about 13,500 pounds of milk with a 4.5 test. Gerben said, "Our cows are a little smaller and give less milk but test higher. We breed for milk production."

deBoer's father visited the United States last year on a tour with their local artificial breeding cooperative and visited Atlantic Breeding Cooperative, here. He said they import some semen from the United States to try to improve milk prodution, but many bulls do not have a high enough fat test. Since they are paid according to their fat test, it is an important consideration. A cooperative markets their milk for them and most of it is made into cheese which is sold "all over the world." Dairymen receive from $12 to $13 for their milk, but Gerben explained that higher costs of production make profits less.

Cows are fed haylage, which is stored in a bunker silo covered with plastic. The grass makes six cuttings and it is irrigated with an automatic sprinkler when the weather is dry. They also feed their cows sugar beet pulp and pelleted corn concentrate which is processed by their local cooperative from grain purchased in the United States. Their herd of cows does not come outside the barn until the first of August, Gerben explained, because they want to make sure they have harvested enough silage for Winter first.

Labor is very expensive in The Netherlands, and with Gerben in this country, his father is paying a laborer $11/hour to help with the work. This high-sounding wage is tempered by the very high taxes which leave the laborer with just $4.50-$5.50/hour. Gerben said, "Every man who works is working for two who don't work." He said the lowest tax bracket is 40 per cent and the highest is 72 per cent.

Corry Bolhuis, 18, is visiting in the home of the Clyde Brubaker family, 2418 Harrisburg Pike, Lancaster. She lives on a 150 acre farm in the northern part of the country, which she says, "is a little on the large side." Her family milks about 80 head of Holstein cows with a pipeline milking system." Her family also harvests hay which is stored under plastic in a bunker silo.

Homestead Notes

Corry is a member of the Christian Country Youth which meets every two weeks, with discussion topics, educational speakers, or simply social activities. Corry traveled 15 miles one way to school each day in "rain, wind and snow. Everybody does it." she said.

Willem Kroon, 22, is also from a dairy farm, but he is planning to finish his 4½ years of study at the Higher Agriculture College at Leeuwarden and become an advisor to farmers, either through a government job or with a feed company or other agricultural enterprise.

Kroon's family milks about 55 cows on their 50 acre farm with a pipeline system. He said one man tends the six units, which are part of an Alpha-Laval lower vacuum system. On the farm, about 30 acres of grass is harvested in a bunker silo, which supplies almost the whole Winter food supply, Willi said. They also feed a corn concentrate, and cabbage leaves - which may sound a bit unusual. Willi explained that the outer leaves of the cabbages are free for the taking, with their only cost being transportation from the farms. This is fed from September through April.

Jan Jansen

Corry (middle) and Dineke observe Sarah Brubaker's puppy.

Willi is visiting with the Dr. Larry Schmuck family, Peach Bottom R2. He is delighted with the opportunity provided to ride with Dr. Schmuck as he makes the rounds of his veterinary practice.

"I wanted to go to a lot of farms. I like visiting farms." He feels this will be helpful in his chosen profession.

Willi, who has two brothers and two sisters, said that he expected to find people "very kind," because of experiences in the United States by colleagues at school.

"You are free, here, to do what you want - that's what I expected from America," he stated.

Willi experienced some of the kindness of Americans when he arrived separately from the rest of the group and hitchhiked from Boston to Lancaster to begin his host family stay one and a half weeks early. He had traveled previously in Germany and Great Britain, and his English was sufficient to resolve any problems.

Dineke VanZanten, 21, is visiting with the Bernard Linn family, 195 Stanley Avenue, Landisville, and hails from a farm which raises sugar beets, wheat, oats, and barley. Sugar beets are harvested mechanically, but Dineke says, "You must hoe the beets." She said she drives the tractor on the farm as necessary. She has two brothers and a younger sister still in high school. One older brother does custom harvesting with her father, and one is studying history.

Dineke has completed two years of study to be a teacher of four to six year-olds, although she said she probably will not teach when she returns. She belongs to a country youth organization which meets monthly. She said, "We run it ourselves by electing five people who organize the group. We have discussions - sometimes on the sea and the environment, or we might have something like a French evening. We also have an exchange with Germans and have contests in soccer."

When asked about the food, Dineke enthusiastically responded, "Yes, I like it. I eat a lot more here than I did at home. It's a change." She and Corry went on to explain that meals in The Netherlands consist of a light breakfast, a mid-morning tea break, a large noon meal ("We always have potatoes, meat and two vegetables"), a mid - afternoon tea break and a light supper.

While Jan Jansen does not live on a farm, his father is a trucker who hauls farm produce, mostly grain and potatoes. Jan, 18, says, "This is my great interest, and I want to go to a business school and study commerce and trades." Jan proved himself a diplomat by explaining away many differences in customs as not right or wrong, but "different". He said he likes American food "very much," although eating habits are different from his home. He said, "You have to adapt yourself."

Jan, who has one brother and one sister, is living with the Wilbur Erbs, Mount Joy R1.

Rob Steendyk, 23, is the only Caravaner who comes from the southern part of The Netherlands. He has completed his education to be a teacher and has spent one year as a substitute teacher. He said he teaches all grades, through grade seven, adding, "You must be strict in the beginning, but that is not my nature," Rob's father plays first clarinet in a symphony orchestra. Rob's hosts are the Donald Hershey family, Manheim R6.

In his free time, Rob enjoys being a disc jockey at dances for parties and friends. He said he has all his music on tapes, which could play for seven days and seven nights. Rob has traveled extensively in Europe, often by hitchhiking and camping, and has visited Italy, Switzerland, Spain, and France, which is his favorite. "French is my best language," he states in very good English.

Rob explains that the elementary schools in this country are not much different from The Netherlands, but he feels there is a lot of difference in middle and high school. Sports or music are not part of the curriculum, and he feels Dutch students must spend more time studying. He explained that there is no difference in funding for private schools and public schools, with the government contributing equally for each.

In discussing his government which has been socialistic for the past four years but currently is not, he said, "There is always money for everything. There is money

HOW TO SELECT INTERFACINGS

With more than 50 different interfacings on the market, it is sometimes difficult to know which one to select for a garment. Several considerations should be made before you select interfacings.

Probably the best test to determine if the interfacing is appropriate is the draping test. Drape the interfacing being considered over your hand or arm Then drape the fashion fabric on top. Feel the two together and see if they are compatible The interfacing should not be heavier than the fashion fabric and dominate it. Consider also the purpose or use of the interfacing: to stabilize or shape part of the garment. If the interfacing is needed to stabilize, you may not want it to have as much give as does the fashion fabric. An interfacing intended to shape needs to be moldable and may be heavier than one used to stabilize. It is also possible that two entirely different interfacings will be used in the same garment, depending on their purpose. The color of the fashion fabric and interfacing should be considered. White and black may cause slight change of color in the interfaced garment when used with a fashion fabric than is not black or white. Consider beige or natural colored interfacings when they are available. Finally - consider the care characteristics of interfacing and fashion fabric. It would not be practical to use a dry-clean only interfacing with machine washable fabric.

There are several areas in a garment where interfacing should be used. These include: collar, lapels, neckline without a collar, sleeveless armhole, button closure, waistband, fitted cuffs on sleeves. In addition, interfacing may be desired in a tie belt and in pockets.

Fusibles are most suitably used in areas where they cover an entire portion of the garment (such as collar, belt, tabs, pocket, or sleeve cuffs). When used as a front interfacing, there may be a visible ridge where the fusible ends.

When using a fusible, it is essential that you follow the manufacturer's directions for that particular fusible to insure satisfactory adhesion and good appearance. Likewise, it is very important that the interfacing be tested on a scrap to see how it affects the fashion fabric.

RULES FOR PERFECT RICE

One of the most economical and versatile foods around is rice. At about 3 cents per serving, it is a real bargain. And it's easy to prepare, too. Because different types of rice call for varying amounts of liquid and cooking time, it is important to follow package directions carefully and measure the ingredients exactly. Then, cook as directed until all the liquid is absorbed. Just before serving, fluff the rice gently with a fork to separate the kernels. When do you run into problems? It is mainly when you use too much liquid. That or a vigorous stir after cooking may result in sticky rice. Good for eating with chopsticks, but not the way most of use like it. However, the ability of rice to cling can work for you, too. One of the simplest ways to make rice look elegant is to mold it.

Instead of fluffing with a fork, spoon the hot, just-cooked rice into a buttered mold or individual molds. Press gently and invert the mold right onto a serving platter. It will hold its shape and look elegant. For individual servings, scoop up the rice with an ice cream dipper. Fluffy or molded, properly cooked rice is an attractive addition to many a meal. It is also nutritious and delicious!

Changes seen in diets

NORRISTOWN -- Nutritionist are becoming concerned about people's diets. They say people eat too much - too much meat, too much fat, too much sugar, and too much salt.

Consumers are evidently concerned, too, as can be noted by the change in the kinds of foods eaten from whole milk to low fat and skim milk, more diet foods, and more fresh vegetables.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture publishes consumption figures on a regular basis. Comparing last year's consumption figures with those of 1960 show some surprising changes that are occurring in our diets.

On being a farm wife

—And other hazards

By JOYCE BUPP

The tears don't roll down her cheeks quite as quickly, but the emotional wound is still causing immeasurable heartache.

Our 9-year-old Patty and Lassie, her registered Holstein 4-H calf, did a lot of growing up together last year. Both were novices in the show ring and learned about first year 4-H dairy project work as a team.

Tall and mostly black, with white boots, tail switch and star on the forehead, Lassie patiently endured pre-show baths, buzzing clippers, hoof trimmings, halter breaking and leading practice sessions with a gentleness possessed by few young animals.

All of us were horrified when a halter, moist from a cow-washing session, swelled across Lassie's nose and left a permanent fine white hairline across the shiny black. But with that prominent mark, Patty could immediately spot her calf in a row of black-faced heifers at the feed rack.

Then, sometime in early July, Lassie disappeared. Neighbors have been called, visited, and have checked their herds for accidental newcomers Lost and found reports have brought no response. Adjoining pastures and fields have been searched. Again. And again. And again.

Reluctantly, we faced the obvious fact we'd tried to avoid Lassie, and five other valuable unbred herdmates, had been stolen. Strange truck tire prints found in the ground at the heifer barn left us with no alternate conclusion.

Our only hope now is that we can trace Patty's beloved pet through some observant cattle buyer or owner. Is she somewhere in a group of heifers, perhaps headed for a dairy replacement sale, to an embryo transplant center, or in waiting to be exported by plane or ship to some dairyman halfway across the world?

And an unthinkable, but not to be overlooked, possibility weighs down on all our thoughts: has loveable Lassie been brutally butchered for some illicit meat sale?

Sadly, theft and vandalism is not a new experience to us We have spent literally hundreds of dollars replacing slashed machinery belts and tires, and repairing rock-broken windows in equipment. Baler twine, bags of seed corn and soybeans, and tractor hydraulic equipment are among the items that have been taken from us in recent years.

Such invasions of our property privacy have left us angry and disillusioned and bitter.

But, frankly, absolutely nothing before has left this family feeling as hollow and heartbroken as this cruel and thoughtless crime that has left as its major victim an innocent youngster.

Whose pasture, or barn, or machinery will be next?

Lassie, wherever you are, or whatever expense someone has incurred in the innocent purchase of you or your heifer friends, is not too far away or too much cost to bring you back. All they have to do is contact us.

Lassie..... come home. Please.

Humane slaughter required by Senate agriculture committee

WASHINGTON, D.C. – The Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry last week approved a bill applying humane slaughter requirements to all government-inspected domestic meat plants and to all imported meat.

The bill, sponsored by Senator Bob Dole (Ks.), ranking Republican member of the Committee, would extend provisions of existing law requiring humane slaughter conditions for federally purchased meats to all U.S slaughter plants that come under the Federal Meat Inspection Act. Imported meats would be subject to the same conditions

Under the bill, Federal meat inspectors would be required to make certain that meat animals are not slaughtered under inhumane conditions. Violators would be subject to both criminal and administrative penalties.

In order to protect religious freedom, the bill restates an existing exemption of slaughter or handling of livestock for religious ritual purposes.

for youth organizations or for whatever you want to do. If you don't have a job you get the same pay anyway." Several of the youth pointed out that high unemployment is a problem in their country.

The youth's reactions to experiences and observations, here, are as varied as their backgrounds. Most admitted that they had heard a lot about this country from television, movies, and tourists, much of which is not true Rob said, "Everyone is always telling us that everything is possible in the United States and everyone is rich. But you've got poor people and you have to work to make a living." He said he found the people here rather conservative in their thinking, which he didn't expect. In his country, he said, "I am very free to do whatever I wish. Most Dutch families are very close, but most families are free and will help in every way possible if you wish to plan a holiday on your own."

One further difference he noted, "Our younger generation is not in a hurry to be married. We have the opportunity to meet lots of people and get to know them."

Corry said, "On television and films it is more about the cities and alcohol and drugs. On farms it is different." Dineke volunteered, "It is more relaxed here than at home. We don't think we have time and here you take time to do things." Corry added, "It takes a lot of time to make a decision at home."

Dineke is impressed with the friendliness she has found here, relating an experience with a friendly waitress However, Corry added a sobering note, "They are more friendly, here, but they forget you sooner."

Both girls expressed appreciation for the opportunity to visit. "We get to see how other people live, what the people think and what they do." Corry said, "Just meeting new people is good, and in many ways the people are the same. This gives you a larger view." Both said it has been helpful to them to travel alone and make arrangements on their own. "Just living with strange people is an experience," Corry said.

Jan noted, "Your way of life is different. You are not so worried and don't make plans ahead." Jan characterized Lancaster County as more "European-like with much older houses", in comparison to Michigan where the group stayed for the first four weeks of their visit here. He called the program "very valuable" to see how people really live. On a holiday you don't talk to the people. It is a very good program."

Itske was surprised to find her host family eating their meals together, because she had heard that this was often not the case. For Willi and Gerben, they expressed interest that the family was not always together for a meal. Itske said in a disappointed tone that a lot of people are not interested in politics in America. "I think the average person is more interested in politics at home." Her brother Gerben expresses a similar view, "Americans don't learn enough about European news. We learn a lot about the United States."

All seven rural youth speak the language with skill. Dineke said however, "I was afraid to talk English at first. I once asked for milk and sugar in my coffee and when the waitress asked me to repeat it I was afraid." Corry said, "You learn it fast when you must talk it all day long. When I first came I didn't think in English, and it was very tiring." Itske agreed that she had trouble saying everything she wanted to at first. Now they all seem at ease with the language.

Each of these young people is eager to talk of his homeland, a country which is the size of Connecticut, with 14 million people. Much land has been reclaimed from the sea, an interesting process which goes on as more land is recovered for use for homes and farms. There is little danger, and when rain is excessive pumps work to keep the low lying areas safe from flooding.

Each Hollander has photos of home and family which helps to lay the groundwork for understanding. In the short week they have been here, they have visited Hersheypark and took a tour of the country with the Canadian Young Farmers who were visiting. Several have attended baseball games in Philadelphia and will travel to Gettysburg.

The four weeks will pass quickly, and the shared experiences and feelings of these goodwill ambassadors will help make the world a little smaller.

Antibiotics restriction proposal opposed by House Ag Committee

WASHINGTON, D.C. – The House Agriculture Committee has unanimously unanimously passed a resolution to delay implementation of an FDA proposal to restrict the use of antibiotics in animal foods. The proposed action restricted most low-level uses of penicillin and tetracycline and other antibiotics to a veterinarian's order. The Committee resolution stated that the proposed restrictions be withdrawn until epidimiological studies and additional scientific research is conducted. They also felt that credible cost-benefit assessments could be made only after all the data was complete.

FDA has admitted that continued low-level use of antibiotics does not pose an imminent hazard to human health, and that there is only a theoretical assumption of antibiotic-resistance pathogens crossing over from animals to humans. In addition, FDA failed to provide formal hearings on the proposed rule. In three informal hearings, testimony was presented by 174 witnesses who opposed the proposed action and only 15 favored them.

Meanwhile, the House Appropriations Subcommittee on Agriculture has voted $250,000 for a study on the use of antibiotics in animal feed. Both the Senate Committee on Agriculture and the House Subcommittee on Dairy and Poultry have requested a comprehensive assessment of the feed additives issues and their impact on the dairy industry. With this in mind, the full House has directed FDA to delay implementation of their proposals pending final results of the research.

Plan rye seeding now

LEBANON – "Seed from the sky" is one method Lebanon County farmers used last year to get rye grain seeded in standing corn, Karl Hellerick, Soil Conservation Service, Lebanon, stated. Helicopter or airplane application is about the only practical method of seeding the big field of standing corn. Seeding that is done August 15 to the first week in September has been successful. A rate of two bushels per acre is recommended.

An alternate method in a strip cropped field is to use a forage blower, stated Hellerick. Sowing rye with the fertilizer after corn harvest is another method.

Rye cover is a "green" manure crop that captures remaining fertility and adds organic matter to the soil. In many situations the two bushels of rye grain can save two tons of top soil.

Regardless of the method one uses, concluded Hellerick, now is the time to locate the seed and decide how one is going to get this important job done.

Perk up meals with pears

This week's "Home on the Range" theme centers around pears. Although several pear salad recipes appear, they are all different and offer a variety of ways to prepare the same type of dish

We recently received a request from Mrs Robert J Wilber asking for a good carrot cake recipe. If you have one on file, send your favorite to "Carrot Cake Recipe," Home on the Range, Lancaster Farming, Box 366, Lititz, Pa 17543.

Desserts

FRESH PEAR CAKE

2 cups sugar
3 eggs, beaten
1½ cups salad oil
3 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 teaspoons cinnamon
3 cups sliced fresh pears

In mixer, cream sugar, eggs, and oil. Mix next five ingredients together. Add this mixture to eggs and beat well. Remove from mixer and fold pears in with spatula Pour into a 10-inch tube pan. BIG RED DRYER

High Performance Fan - The large diameter fan of unique air foil design, produces a high level CFM (cubic feet per minute) at low horsepower The result is faster drying and less cost to you

Ram-Jet Burner - The powerful ram jet burner with adjustable primary air intake and "sweep ell" design assures controlled burning from high blast to low flame requirements The ram jet burner is constructed of long lasting stainless steel for clean burning efficiency

Control System - The heart of the dryer system is the sensor control unit The totally automatic capability, including a complete 100% feedback system, gives you optimum drying without the problems caused by clocks and diaphragms

Heavy Duty Electric Motors - The electric motors are standard NEMA frame off the-shelf 1800 RPM units designed for rugged use Each motor has its own overload sensing device which is incorporated in the master safety system

Air Plenum Chamber - The exclusive combination of heat blower extension and ad justable return air scoops provide optimal heat and air distribution throughout the plenum chamber This assures faster and more uniform drying

Mercury Pressure Switches - Moisture proof paddle operated mercury switches are used in controlling grain augering into and out of the dryer Unlike diaphragm switches, mercury switches will operate regardless of the outside temperature

Quality Louvered Material - The 10 inch grain column panels are stamped louvers rather than perforated holes Louvers provide increased strength avoid plugging and assure effective air circulation

Dries 10 points for only 5¢ per bu. Based on 44¢ per gallon LP Gas.

5 WAYS MORE EFFICIENT THAN OTHER DRYERS

Below is a conservative diagram of the most important components of the dryer design efficiencies

Farm Bureau to sponsor FFA speaking contest

ALEXANDRIA, Va. – Contestants in a new FFA speaking contest will have only 30 minutes to prepare a four to six minute speech. The new contest in extemporary public speaking is sponsored by the American Farm Bureau Federation of Park Ridge, Ill., as a special project of the National FFA Foundation, Inc. Administered by the National FFA Organization in Alexandria, Va., the contest will provide awards at the chapter, state, regional and national levels.

The contests will begin early in the 1978-79 school year. Elimination contests at chapter, district, state, and regional levels will culminate in the selection of a national winner at the 1979 National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Mo.

One of eleven national FFA contests, the extemporaneous public speaking contest is designed to encourage members to develop speaking skills in situations where there is a minimum of time for preparation. The contest is a continuation of the FFA organization's emphasis on development of speaking and leadership skills which goes back to the founding of the organization 50 years ago.

The first National FFA Public Speaking Contest was held at the National FFA Convention in 1930. The contest, which requires participants to deliver a six minute prepared speech, will continue to be part of contest activities at the National FFA Convention.

"We are especially pleased to be able to sponsor this contest," said American Farm Bureau President Allan Grant, "because it emphasizes the importance of communication in agriculture today. Given today's political and economic situation, it is extremely important that our future agricultural leaders be articulate in expressing their ideas. We are convinced that activities such as the FFA extemporaneous public speaking contest can help give our young people the encouragement they need to develop essential communications skills that will make them effective leaders for tomorrow's agriculture," Grant concluded. He then announced the appointment of Ken Cheatham, AFBF director of local governmental affairs as the organization's liaison person for the program.

The national extemporaneous public speaking contest is open to FFA members enrolled in the high school vocational agriculture program during the current calendar year. In order to compete in the national finals, participants must participate in elimination contests at the local, state and regional levels. Awards sponsored by the American Farm Bureau are presented to contest winners and runners-up at each level of competition.

Sponsorship of the national FFA extemporaneous public speaking award by the American Farm Bureau Federation provides for medals to chapter and state winners. First, second, third and fourth place winners at the National FFA Convention each receives a plaque and shares over $1000 in award money and $350 to offset convention travel expenses.

Tractor safety urged when packing silos

UNIVERSITY PARK – Many farmers take advantage of slopes and hillsides to make horizontal silos. This type silo is much safer in some respects when compared to vertical or "tower" silos (which collect poisonous gases) but is still not without its problems. Because it is essentially an open air silo, the accumulation of toxic gases does not occur. Rather, the danger comes from the filling and packing of the horizontal silos, cautions the Pennsylvania Agricultural Safety Council.

The biggest danger is tractor roll-over. It is common to run a tractor, possibly with weights, over the silage as it's unloaded and arranged for packing to facilitate fermentation. The best type machine for this would be a crawler-tractor with tracks. These have more weight, a lower center of gravity and thus more stability. However, most farmers don't own a crawler and have to use whatever they do have, says Dennis J. Murphy, Extension safety specialist, The Pennsylvania State University, and member of the PASC.

A tricycle type tractor has the least stability and is more likely to upset if gotten too near an edge that collapses or gets turned on too steep an incline.

Gollee, I thought to myself, how do I get into these things

It had sounded so easy when I got the idea of doing a feature on a family involved with rodeo I know horses and have been to rodeos, the story should have been a snap

I forgot about the taking pictures

There is a big difference between being outside an arena watching the action and standing inside on foot, trying to snap pictures You see, it takes me about five minutes to get the camera lined up, focused, aimed, and the picture taken By then the rodeo action has come, gone, and come again

I've got to admit those cowboys helped though They figured out where the action would be, drew an "X" in the dust, and told me to stand right there It was the best spot in the house, also the most dangerous

Then the calf came out of the chute, with the mounted cowboy hot on his trail Heart in mouth, I watched them stampede towards me I couldn't watch As they thundered towards me, I turned cold I closed my eyes and blindly snapped when told to

"Rats!" the guy muttered Opening my eyes I saw a frustrated cowboy with a long, empty rope He had missed the calf Smiling, he retired to the chute to try again We had to go through the whole scary process again

Gollee, I thought to myself, how do I get into these things

Birchler heads state ag teachers association

By JOANNE SPAHR

MILLERSVILLE — Dressed in a khaki work outfit and contentedly cradling a wad of chewing tobacco in his right cheek (a vice he's nurtured since a mere teenager), August Birchler leaned against the gates at the Lancaster Stockyards and related some of his philosophies of FFA

"By the time a student has been through the FFA program, he's learned how to take an active role in his community and he knows how to be an effective public speaker," Birchler commented, between fielding questions thrown at him by excited students running their pigs down the alleys to the Lancaster FFA hog sale. "Usually, the students can get in front of a group and handle themselves better than their teachers," he added with a mischievous grin on his boyish face.

Although known for his good-natured kidding, this vocational agriculture department head from Penn Manor High School makes it known that he's serious about his statement.

"If I were a teenager, I don't know if I could get up in front of a group and handle myself as well as my students do. You see, I never was in a vocational agriculture program when I was in high school. The school I went to didn't have ag."

But, even though he never had the experience of FFA and ag in high school, Birchler's made up for his loss somewhere in his 10-year teaching career since he was recently named the president of the Pennsylvania Vocational Agriculture Teacher's Association.

August Birchler

As described by Birchler, the state ag teachers' association serves as the link between the Pennsylvania Department of Education and Penn State University. The association relays ag teachers' concerns and needs to the two groups. It also works with different state shows and with the national assocation.

Before this year's election, the Penn Manor teacher served as treasurer of the state organization. Modest, though pleased to be named state president, Birchler outlined the duties which go along with his present position. Among those responsibilities are attending the national convention in Dallas, Tex., in December; working as a state FFA advisor; helping to choose the state FFA scholarship award winner; setting up and carrying out the state agriculture teachers' workshop; chairing four state meetings at Penn State; attending as many as 16 regional meetings; and serving on two vocational director's boards.

"Just a few more things to do in my spare time," he says with a hint of a wry smile forming beside his dimples and a definite twinkle in his eye.

Those who know Birchler realize that, just like most other active vocational agriculture instructors, he's already busier than a lot of people.

In his role of advisor to the Penn Manor FFA, he organizes many in-school and after-school activities for his students. Along with that responsibility, he is on the board of advisors to the state FFA, takes part in the FFA livestock show at the Pennsylvania Farm Show, serves as a judge at local fairs, and works on various FFA committees. As a tribute to his efforts he has been made an honorary Keystone Farmer.

Needless to say, he finds his vocation rewarding.

"As an ag teacher you get to know practically the whole agricultural community," he states. "And, almost everyone knows you. I really think you're treated well. There's a lot of respect given to agriculture teachers."

He also finds the job rewarding because of the personal growth he sees happening to his students.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

I feel like calling this piece "a day in the life of the Risser family." It started off with me freezing the last 15 quart of sugar peas for this year; only to be interrupted and told that I'm to take our two 4-H visitors from Canada to Lancaster for their farm tour of our county. A change of plans was necessary as the DHIA tester was here and therefore Allen wasn't available to tell the trucks, bringing fill from a construction site, where to put their loads and Philip had to stay home and miss the tour.

Later I hurried out to pick three quart of raspberries and make jelly - only to spill one hot jar of purple liquid all over the counter I knew the strawberries needed weeding and the beans and cucumbers should be picked today. But, there was a 4-H Community Club meeting planned for early afternoon Now, there was another problem - the scheduled tour of a newspaper printing shop was cancelled and so another lithographic printer was lined up at the last minute and I and another leader took a lively group of youngsters in our cars. Some needed a ride to and from their homes also.

My husband spent the day tearing down an old shed and talking to prospective buyers of the old wide boards.

Home again, and a dash to the garden to pick sweet corn for supper Thank goodness, there was watermelon for dessert which was left over from a family reunion. Back to the garden later to pull foot-long carrots, when a car drives in the lane It is our daughter who has just arrived after flying to Canada for a few days on her company's jet After listening to her experiences, I answer the door to find a new tenant, from one of our cottages, who wants me to type a lease for him. No wonder I read the newspaper at 11 p.m

portunities enable young adults to take an active part in their community And, that's important. We've got too many non-agriculture people making decisions for rural folks," he believes.

And, after 10 years he's seen a lot of his students do well in the community

His years at Penn Manor have also recorded quite a change in the agriculture department, Birchler points out When he first began teaching, the ag course had about 50 students enrolled under a two-teacher department. Since that time the enrollment has increased to about 200 students and gone from a two-teacher to a four-teacher department.

"That's probably the most rewarding thing I've seen in my 10 years - the department flourishing I like to see the young people get interested," he notes with a pleasant smile

Now as president of the state agriculture teachers' association, he will have the opportunity to see how his co-workers across the state are getting involved and doing their part With luck, this will be another rewarding experience for Gus Birchler to add to his career.

Pa. livestock dealer charged

NEW YORK, N.Y. – Willard C Dinger, a livestock dealer and former market operator of Duncansville, Pa., has been charged with issuing insufficient funds checks and failing to pay the full purchase price for more than $209,000 worth of livestock in violation of the Packers and Stockyards Act.

Dinger purchased livestock in Pennsylvania, Maryland, the Shenandoah Valley area of Virginia, and the Ohio Valley region of West Virginia.

Dinger has a right to a hearing. If the charges are proven, he would be placed under a cease and desist order. His registration also could be suspended.

The P&S Act is a fair trade practices law which is administered by the packers and stockyards program of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service. It promotes and maintains fair and open competition in the marketing of livestock, poultry and meat.

New small watershed projects funded

LANCASTER -- In a supplementary budget request to Congress, the President has included funds to finance 25 new small watershed project starts by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service, according to M Rupert Cutler, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture for Conservation, Research and Education.

The 25 projects will cost a total of $75 million with the President requesting an additional outlay of fiscal year 1979 of $6 million This is in addition to a previous 1979 budget request of $142,522,000 to continue construction on 528 small watershed projects already underway.

The projects will be selected by SCS during the coming fiscal year. All will be eligible for funding as local sponsors complete preparations for construction

The new starts were recommended by President Carter as a followup to the Administration's new water resource policy announced in early June.

Dr Cutler said the President's water policy message also gave SCS approval to fund 80 per cent of the cost of nonstructural measures in small watershed projects. Up to now, nonstructural measures have been paid for entirely by local sponsors.

So called "nonstructural measures" include zoning, land use constraints, relocation of flood plains structures, purchase of flood plains for public use, and floodproofing.

SCS State Conservationist, Graham T. Munkittrick, added that the action will provide expanded small watershed benefits for Pennsylvanians. Local sponsors of several small watershed projects have indicated an interest in using a combination of dams and dikes with nonstructural measures to solve their flooding problems. Others have shown an interest in using the nonstructural approach for lowering flood damages.

SCS is presently assisting local people in 45 watersheds in Pennsylvania.

The watershed SCS is involved in locally is the Chickies Creek Watershed.

The large 12" x 12" plunger is designed to move large amounts of manure at six (6) strokes per minute Angle iron guide assures perfect head alignment

42" stroke Moves 12 cubic ft. per minute.
Up to 250' depending on the type of manure.

Reliable Power Pack with high quality components Compactness allows unit to be installed away from the manure pump pit

Products of RYDER SUPPLY CO.

12" SQUARE CHAMBER
- A square chamber allows for best gate design. To open completely, with minimum resistance, a round chamber doesn't allow the gate to open completely.

HEAD SHAPE
- The head shears off long straw or hay in the manure.
- No bushings or oil seals common to round plungers.
- Sloped back head creates agitation with each stroke, eliminating bridging.

PVC PIPE
- 10" PVC Pipe, not 12"; by going from a 12" square chamber to a 10" round, assures even pressure on manure to eliminate the chances for sediment to accumulate.

SERVICE
- By installing the pump in an accessible pit, all parts are easily inspected. There are no costly seals or bushings to be replaced regularly.

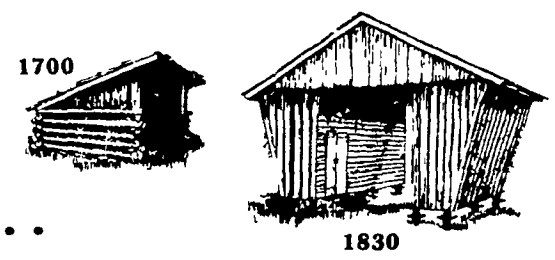
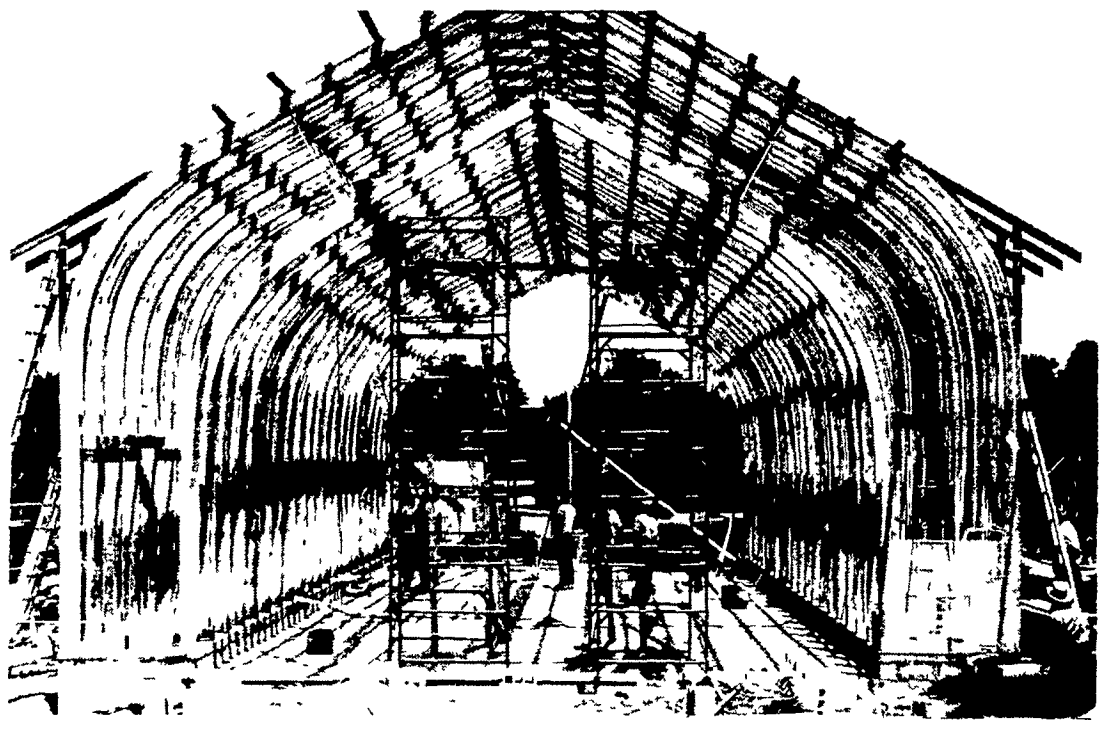
A building with almost unlimited possibilities . . .

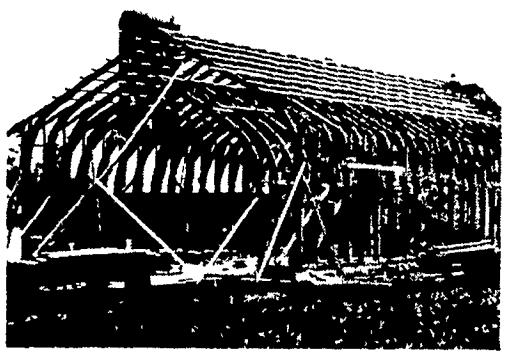


The Evolution of the American Corncrib

1977
Laminated Uni arch design makes all inside space useful — even close to walls, and permits economical installation of roofing and siding materials



Large Volume Grain and Storage Implement Building



A building with almost unlimited possibilities:

- Over 5,000 bushels ear corn storage
- Sheltered area to load and unload
- To hold against price fluctuations
- Convenient feed-preparation space
- Large equipment storage flexibility
- Up to 1,440 sq. ft. for other crops

Beginning with the earliest American farms, corn on the cob was seasoned and dried by allowing air to flow around it; this kept away mold. From simple, square cribs of alternately piled logs, covered by a sloping roof, the corncrib evolved to the drive-in crib. The sidewalls always slanted outward at the eaves. On a great many mountain farms this was the beginning of barn architecture, for by adding doors in the driveway wall, you have the simplest American barn.

Today, a much more efficient structure for the storage of corn — along with large farm implement storage — is provided by the imaginative use of the Laminated Rafter. The exceptional strength of this aesthetically pleasing arch may be readily combined with simple construction, requiring a minimum amount of materials and erection time. It is a structure that permits great flexibility, because all inside space is useable, offering so many possibilities for a variety of farming needs.

FARM EQUIPMENT

Big bin capacities... faster harvests.

Big bin capacities and fast unloading speeds of Gleaner combines can mean fewer, shorter stops for unloading. The L2's capacity is 200 bushels, largest in its class. The M2's bin is 180 bushels. Yet either of these giants can unload in barely more than 1½ minutes, thanks to the fastest tube in the west. Look into Gleaner combine productivity. See why their sure feed system with down front cylinder gives controlled feeding and threshing and puts more clean grain in those huge bins. Stop in!

It's Time To Think Silage Treatment

Ensil-ate™

Developed by

MASTER MIX RESEARCH

The Silage Preservative With A Real Difference

WHAT IS IT?

$1 invested for ENSIL-ATE per ton of silage stored can return $3 per ton in added feeding value

ENSIL-ATE is a silage additive designed to

- Reduce Rancidity
- Prevent Oxidation and Over-Heating
- Inhibit Mold Growth
- Increase Palatability of any Ensilage

ENSIL-ATE has its own feed value!

- Protein 11 percent - Fat 2 percent - Fiber 35 percent

ENSIL-ATE adds highly digestible protein and fiber in the form of ground soybran flakes.

ENSIL-ATE prevents initial run off.

- 10 lbs. of Ensil-Ate will absorb 40 lbs. water.

ENSIL-ATE is perfectly safe to use and contains only all-natural proteins.

ENSIL-ATE is backed by leading experimental stations as well as Master Mix Research.

HOW IS IT USED?

ENSIL-ATE requires no additional equipment.

It should be added to your silage at the rate of 10 lbs. per ton. Packaged in 50 lb. paper sacks, each bag will effectively treat 5 tons of silage. Simply spread the bag on the silage wagon before or during filling.

REMEMBER -

You can mix 10 lbs./ton easier and more thoroughly than 1 lb./ton of silage that most additives require.
ENSIL-ATE can also be added as the silo is being filled.

FOR MORE DETAILS ON HOW YOU CAN GET AN AVERAGE ADDED RETURN OF $3 FOR EVERY TON OF SILAGE YOU PUT UP, CALL OR VISIT YOUR MASTER MIX DEALER TODAY!

YOU'LL BE GLAD YOU DID!

Berks County DHIA Monthly Report

JUNE 1978

A 305 day lactation for Sally, a 9-year old Holstein in the Junge Farms' herd, topped the milk production list in the Berks County DHIA program last month. She had 27,895 pounds of milk and 772 pounds of butterfat. Second in milk was Shnooki, a 5-year old Holstein in the Ray E. Bicksler herd. She produced 27,283 pounds of milk and 888 pounds of butterfat. The champion butterfat producer, at 24,892 pounds of milk and 946 of butterfat, was Redrose, owned by George S. Troutman. Andrew Stoltzfus owns the second-place cow, Irene, whose lactation ended with 25,204 pounds of milk and 899 pounds of butterfat.

New method of preserving fruit noted

UNIVERSITY PARK – If one is concerned about preserving nutrients in home canned apples, she shouldn't worry about storing them in a dark, cool place. A person can just pack them raw, leave a big head-space and use a pressure canner.

So say Penn State researchers who, contrary to recommended home canning practices, have found that excessive light, temperature, and air space do not affect vitamin C retention in home canned apples.

Dr. Gerald D. Kuhn and graduate student Mary A. Keith also found that the recommended combination of hot pack and boiling water canning is not as good, nutrient-wise, as canning apples raw with a pressure system, using a process schedule of eight minutes at 10 pounds of pressure.

Essentially, the researchers discovered that the best way to preserve vitamin C in apples, is to pack them raw and leave a two-inch air space at the top before pressure canning. This method results, they say, in 40 to 60 per cent more vitamin C than if the apples were packed hot with only one-quarter inch head-space, and canned with the boiling water method.

"We're surprised by our results," says Dr. Kuhn a professor of food science. "We've long recommended that acid canned foods be cooked first, that jars be filled leaving little air space, that canning be done with boiling water, and that the jars then be stored in the dark at less than 70 degrees farenheit. We've belived such methods would both prevent spoilage and lead to the best nutrient retention."

Although their research is continuing, Miss Keith adds, "We believe our results with light and intensity and storage temperature will be about the same, no matter how long the canned food sits on the shelf, and no matter what fruit or vegetable we use."

Miss Keith, who's working towards a masters in food science, presented the research results in Dallas, Tex. in June, at the Institute of Food Technologists' national convention.

She noted that apples were chosen for the research because of the large volume canned by the Pennsylvania housewife; and because, although they are not a high source of vitamin C for the human diet, their vitamin C nutrient is particularly sensitive to light, air, acidity and heat.

After canning the apples in pint-sized jars with two-piece aluminum lids, using varying canning procedures and head-spaces, the jars were stored at 55 or 88 degrees Farenheit, under flourescent lights or in the dark. Some were opened after two, four, six, 12 and 24 weeks, while others still remain closed for future testing.

Specifically, the researchers found that:

Home canned apples stored under bright light and/or at high temperature did not result in significantly greater loss of vitamin C than those stored in cool, dark area;

Regardless of whether apples are processed in boiling water or a pressure canner, between 10 and 20 per cent more vitamin C is retained if the food is packed raw rather than cooked;

Although pressure canning takes longer and is more expensive than boiling water canning (if you don't have a pressure canner) it results in between 10 and 15 per cent more vitamin C retention in canned apples; and

Vitamin C retention was unaffected by the amount of head space when boiling water canning was done. When the pressure canning method was used, however, and apples were packed raw, a two-inch head-space resulted in about 15 per cent high vitamin C.

Noting that they concentrated only on nutrient retention, Dr. Kuhn says that certain trade-offs might have to be considered if canners were interested in other food characteristics. For example, he says, when pressure canning is used, tomatoes and peaches soften. On the other hand, he concludes, pressure canning will not harm the flavor of foods and in fact may enhance it.

Fight brewing in Senate over school lunch program

WASHINGTON, D.C. – U.S. Senator Herman E. Talmadge, speaking for a unanimous Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry, served notice Wednesday of an all-out Senate fight to block the transfer of USDA's school lunch program to the proposed new U.S Department of Education.

Talmadge spoke out vigorously against transfer of the school lunch and related child nutrition programs in a statement to the Senate that had the unanimous backing of the Committee that he chairs. The Committee reaffirmed its opposition to the transfer at a meeting recently

The Agriculture Commitee's action was in response to a sharply divided vote last Friday by the Senate Committee on Government Affairs in defeating an amendment to delete authority for the school lunch transfer from the bill to create a new Cabinet-level Department of Education The amendment to block the transfer, sponsored by Senator Charles Percy (R-Ill), lost on a seven to eight vote, with an eighth member of the Committee, who was absent, announced in favor of the amendment

"I regret that the amendment to prevent the transfer of these programs lost in Committee," Talmadge said. "But I am encouraged that it had the support of half the members."

Talmadge said he understood that Senator Percy would offer the anti-transfer amendment when the bill reaches the Floor

"I intend to join as co-sponsor of the amendment and have asked all members of our Committee to do likewise," Talmadge said. "I also urge other members of the Senate who feel as we do about the school lunch program to join as co-sponsors "

"This fight is far from over. The evenly divided decision of the Committee on Government Affairs is just the opening round

"I can assure the Senate that this issue will be thoroughly debated when it reaches the Floor Evey member of the Senate will have the opportunity to vote on the future fate of these great and vital child nutrition programs

"The child nutrition programs – which have the school lunch program as their centerpiece – constitute one of the most worthwhile and creative activities of the Federal government," Talmadge said.

"They contribute in a unique way to the strength and health of the Nation by providing school children with the opportunty of a hot, nutritious daily meal They both protect and nuture one of our Nation's most precious human resources - our children

"It would be a grave mistake to take them away from competent, proven hands, and place them in an untried and untested new Deparmtnet of Education that will be run - as it should be - by professional educators," he said

Talmadge dismissed as a "diversion" an amendment adopted by the Government Affairs Committee that would retain funding jurisdiction in USDA over the Commodity Purchase Program for the school lunch and other child feeding programs.

"This would simply add to the bureaucratic confusion in administering the child nutrition programs and is a transparent attempt to obscure the disruption and uncertainty the bill, as written, will pose The potential victims of this disruption and uncertainty are the children of America," Talmadge said

Talmadge emphasized that he favors the creation of a Federal Department of Education - but without the school lunch and child nutrition programs

"Our opposition to the school lunch transfer should not be confused with the merits of a Cabinet-level Department of Education," he said

"Indeed, six members of the Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry were original co-sponsors of the Department of Education bill as introduced last session Likewise, four other co-sponsors of the bill are members of the Committee on Government Affairs who supported the amendment to delete the transfer authority "

Talmadge said if Congress approves transfer of school lunch and child nutrition programs it would, in effect, create a "Department of Education and Child Feeding "

"Education is what the new Department is supposed to be all about," Talmadge said "It is intended to deal with education.. not with welfare not with health. not with food and nutrition but with education

Holstein breeders plan annual show

FLEMINGTON, N.J. – The best in area Holstein cattle will parade before noted cattle judge John Rinehart of Taneytown, Md., on August 11, reports George Alles, chairman for the Central Jersey Holstein Show. Scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. under a large tent on Flemington Fairgrounds, the show will include over 120 entries from many of the outstanding Holstein dairy herds in Hunterdon, Somerset, and Mercer Counties, as well as many 4-H youth projects.

John Rinehart is a dairy cattle judge recognized by the Pennsylvania and National Holstein Associations and a reputable breeder of registered Holsteins on his own farm located on the Pennsylvania-Maryland border.

Many trophies and awards will be presented during the day-long show as entries in 13 different age classes are judged and ranked according to their conformation.

The most significant award, according to Alles, is the registered Holstein calf presented to the top youngster in the show, based on scores in fitting, showmanship and achievement.

Judge fitting and showmanship in youth competition will be Mary Sowerby, formerly of Blawenburg, now a public relations director for Sire Power, Inc., Tunkhannock, Pa.

Entry forms, lists of classes, other details are available in the office of the county agricultural agent, Extension Center, Route 31, north of Flemington.

Admission to the show is free, continues Alles. This can be a fun day for the whole family, farm and non-farm, as well as educational, he says.

If you're planning to buy an electrically heated home...

Energy-Efficient Homes Offer More

Insulation not only adds comfort to your home but saves you money season after season In winter, it holds heat in to lower heating bills In summer, it keeps your home cooler to reduce air conditioning costs

That's why PP&L approved Energy Efficient homes are super insulated In ceilings this means insulation with a thermal resistance value of R-30 Exterior walls are R-16 which includes insulating sheathing And, in floors over unheated areas such as basements and garages, you ll find insulation rated at R-19.

Doors and windows must meet PP&L s insulation requirements as well Fact is, everything that should be insulated is right down to hot water pipes and heating ducts

So, if you're thinking of a new electrically heated home, look for one that qualifies for the Energy Efficient Home Award It s your assurance that you ll be getting the most practical energy-saving features money can buy.

Youths attending 4-H program

Two Montgomery County 4-H members have been selected and are attending the National 4-H Citizenship Shortcourse in Washington, D.C.

Rita Wojton, Trappe and Bill Collins, Schwenksville, are attending the week-long intense program conducted at the National 4-H Center in Chevy Chase. This event stresses citizenship opportunities plus the chance to meet teens from throughout the United States. It gives members a chance to explore the Nation's capital to learn more about government and heritage.

Field trips include tours to the White House, Arlington Cemetery, Ford's Theatre, Lincoln Memorial, Kennedy Gravesites and many more historical spots in the Nation's Capital. Delegates will also spend an evening at the Kennedy Center to see- "The Wiz".

One of the highlights of the program is a day on Capital Hill when members will meet with legislators, see the Senate and House of Representatives in action, the Supreme Court and the Library of Congress. They will also tour many Federal agencies and organizations placing special emphasis on economics, jobs and careers.

In addition, delegates will have special workshop to plan citizen programs, back in the counties, discuss "reflections and challenges", share ideas on "4-H Century III" and conclude with a Coffeehouse Talent Show and special ceremonies.

Rita is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wojton of Trappe. Selected as the Montgomery County 4-H Outstanding Girl, Rita is President of the Trappe 4-H Community Club and 4-H Teen Council; a 4-H Exchange Club officer and has served as Chairman for several events at the 4-H Fair. Currently serving as coach for the 4-H State Days Consumer Education Presentation team. Rita has also attended P.A.F.C., 4-H Leadership Congress, and 4-H Capital Days. She is also a Keystone winner in the "Personal Development" and "Outstanding 4-H" categories of the National 4-H Awards Program.

Bill, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Collins of Schwenksville is President of the Perk-Penn 4-H Horse Club where he has won numerous awards for his leadership and equestrian skills. Bill has attended the State 4-H Achievement Days and is currently on the Montgomery County 4-H Horse Judging team which will travel to Penn State in August. Bill was also a member of the judging team that placed fifth overall at the South Eastern Pennsylvania 4-H Judging Contest held recently in Lansdale.

Berks Co. 4-H'ers attend conference

Four Berks County 4-H'ers journeyed to Washington, D.C. this past week to participate in National Citizenship Short Course held at the National 4-H Center.

Lisa Breininger, Robesonia; Janis Malsbury, Rehrersburg; and Karen Sattazahn and Nick Zattazahn, Womelsdorf; represented Berks County in the Pennsylvania delegation. 4-H'ers from fourteen other states attended the conference.

During the week-long session 4-H'ers toured Washington, D.C. landmarks, visited with their Congressmen, attended a theatre performance at the Kennedy Center, and participated in citizenship workshops at the 4-H Center. The main emphasis of study was the national economy, careers, and jobs.

Each of the Berks County delegates has been active in county, regional, and state 4-H activities before being selected to attend Citizenship Short Course.

Jr. Grange princess from Chester Co.

HARRISBURG – Carol Rennard, 405 N. Chester Road, West Chester, has been named Pennsylvania State Grange 1978-79 junior princess. Miss Rennard is a member of the Goshen Junior Grange, No. 358.

Farm families invited to Md. Farm Day Aug. 3

COLLEGE PARK, Md. – Dairy-oriented men and women, and youngsters past nine years of age, should all find something of educational interest on August 3 during Farm Family Field Day at the University of Maryland's agronomy-dairy research farm near Clarksville Howard County

One could spend most of the forenoon watching an embryo transplant demonstration being conducted on a live cow by a Via-Pax commercial representative from Elizabethtown, Pa

If one is more interested in crop farming, he could spend the morning on wagon tours of research plots at the farm And 4-H youth teams can participate in a dairy cattle fitting and showing contest to help prepare for the forthcoming livestock show and fair season

Women can observe these activities, too, or they may wish to saunter off to a separate display of homemakers topics in the big tent which will be set up near the research farm's administrative office

The homemakers exhibits have been arranged by Mrs Judith R. Williamson, Extension housing and home furnishing specialist since July 1 at the University of Maryland in College Park She will be available to answer questions during the day, along with her former co-worker, Linnea L. Kroll, Extension home economist in Howard county

Included in the homemakers display will be a continuous slide-tape presentation on fast-food selection and costs, a demonstration on growing, drying and using herbs, poster display on working with children, filmstrip on weight control, and how-to displays on quilting, carpet selection and food preservation Free fact sheets on the latter topic will also be available

The women's program will operate on a continuous basis, from 9 30 a.m. to 3 p m Various agricultural exhibits will also be in place all day, on the grounds and in the barns, including an outdoor farm machinery display

Wagon tours of the field research plots will run from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., with each tour lasting about an hour. Refershments and light lunch will be sold in the big tent by the Howard County 4-H Dairy Club, starting at 10 a m

This year's field day coordinator is Dr Charles M Chance, associate professor of dairy science and Extension dairy cattle specialist at the University of Maryland in College Park

The site for all this year's tenth statewide forage crops and dairy cattle management field day is located three miles northeast of Clarksville in central Howard county Street address for the University of Maryland farm is 4234 Folly Quarter Road

Open house scheduled for Adams Co. farm

EAST BERLIN – According to an announcement made this week by Richard M. Crouse, member of the Adams County Agricultural Council, the council will sponsor a Farm Visitation Day, on August 5 at the farm of Larry L. and Yvonne S Mummert, East Berlin R2 The Mummert Farm is located along Route 194 between Abbottstown and East Berlin.

The farm visitation will provide an opportunity to observe a modern dairy farm operation. Visitors' will see dairy cattle and calves, livestock feeding, milking, milk storage, and handling as well as farm crops, machinery and farming practices including soil and water conservation measures carried out on this farm.

Farm tours, by tractor and wagon, will be conducted from 10 a m until 7 p m Guides will point out and explain each item of interest along the tour Ample free parking and free refreshments will be provided

The theme of the farm visitation is "A Visit to the home of the Magic Cow " Everyone is encouraged to come and visit the farm and observe first-hand

For additional information contact Rick Crouse at Farmers Home Administration, Gettysburg at 717-334-9231

The number of cattle and calves on U.S farms has decreased by over 15 million head since the beginning of 1975. This means fewer hamburgers and steaks for the next few years.

The windmill - an old idea that's coming back

By Jerry Webb
University of Delaware

NEWARK, Del – No machine was more respected around my boyhood farm home than the windmill It was treated with respect, cared for regularly, and praised for the useful work it did. When the wind blew, it pumped water. Water that was needed for the livestock and drinking water for the house And when the wind didn't blow that meant another job for the boys to perform. Hours of hard pumping on a deep well just to keep the stock tank full. There were those lazy Summer days when not a breath of air stirred and the windmill just stood there - a silent reminder of the work to be done

The Windmill sort of lost its place of importance in American agriculture about the time electricity came to most farms. A small electric motor would pump water and do so many other things and it didn't really cost that much And so the windmill was left to rust and rot and fall down as so many of them have.

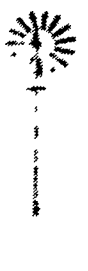
Now most windmills are regarded as antiques and are looked upon as some sort of rural status symbol by those farm families who have been on the land long enough to have owned one.

All that may be changing, however. Researchers in the U.S Department of Agriculture and other federal agencies are reinventing the windmill. A bunch of manufacturers in several countries are commercially producing windmills now, capable of making electricity, pumping water, and doing other useful work A Federal Energy Administration report indicates that windmill sales doubled between 1975 and 1976.

Several U.S. manufacturers are trying out prototype systems in the two-to-15 kilowatts range. Out west, Department of Agriculture scientists are finding that windmills can replace electric motors for a large share of the irrigation water pumping that's so necessary in the Great Plains area In one Texas test the average wind speed is 7 1 meters per second year-round, providing an ideal climate for a windmill that will pump water to irrigate dry land agriculture

History credits a chap named Paulo with introducing windmills into Rome before the time of Augustus. They were used for grinding grain. At about 150 B.C. windmills helped provide music by powering the pistons of air pumps used in organs. History dutifully records the development of the windmill from a very simple, crude machine to a much more sophisticated model used in the U.S. in the late 1800's for threshing grain and other farm chores. That particular model was built right into a large barn

(Turn to Page 103)



The windmill, which has held its own quite well in Lancaster County, is gaining popularity and interest in nearly all parts of the country.

Urner Barry egg pricing challenged

DECATUR, Ga. – The rift between egg producers and the Urner Barry Company is widening, according to "United Voices", a weekly newsletter put out by United Egg Producers, a national cooperative of egg producers

In its July 21 newsletter, the U.E.P. said·

'Last week the Urner-Barry Organization apparently "added fuel to the fire" by announcing that beginning July 31st it's publication, "The Producers Price Current" would begin the daily quotation of egg prices

"The U E P Board strongly opposes the daily price quotation preferring the present twice-a-day quotation "But," according to U E P President Harry Muller, "what difference does it make what producers want or need Urner-Barry has been unresponsive to the industry's need for some time now and this just seems to point out once again that the Urner Organization is going to do whatever suits itself"

"John Wallace, U E P.'s director and past president pointed out that 'The daily quotation is in direct conflict with the recommendations made by the National Price Study Committee, chaired by N J Commissioner of Agriculture, Phil Alampi and funded by USDA" Wallace added this move will only add to what is already a confused market I would hope that Urner-Barry would seriously reconsider it's decision to implement the daily price quotation of eggs"

"In action this past week the United Egg Producers Board directed staff to initiate congressional investigation into the egg industry's price reporter, Urner-Barry.

"A Congressional Committee has been investigating the "yellow sheet" which is used by the meat industry to determine meat prices Action will begin on this process at once

"At the recent American Egg Board meeting Ms Barbara Schlei, administrator of the Agricultural Market Service, USDA, indicated her strong belief that commodity pricing should be done similar to the E C I. who pioneered the auction trading of eggs She stated that in her opinion "auction trading is in the best interest of both producer and consumer interest, additionally it is a true indicator of supply and demand" E C I is the Egg Clearing House, Inc , an organization that was initiated by U E P

U E P. has long favored Nest Run Trading and have been advocates that pricing should be based on actual trading U.E P President Muller indicates that "while much work and coordination must be done, U E P will, as it has in the past, take a leadership role in the interest of its members on this issue."

U.E P has addressed itself to the entire picture of price discovery" according to Muller "and has approached the entire issue with an open mind and in a responsible manner ever keeping in mind the best interests of our members" Muller added

Angus association president loves his cattle

By DIETER KRIEG

DOVER — Walter Laird is in the cow and calf business because he and his wife, Nellie, both enjoy working with beef cows. "No matter how old you get, you are always loking forward to that next calf and you're wondering whether or not it will be better than the one you had the year before. You wonder if it will be a heifer or another good 4-H Club calf.

But the Lairds aren't raising cattle and laboring in fields strictly for fun. There are bills that have to be paid. Profits in the cattle business haven't been easy to come by during the past four or five years, Laird says. "A lot of people went broke. Things were looking up this year until the president lifted the beef import quota. Now I don't know what will happen. I guess they (the government) thought four or five months was enough time for us to make a little money.

The Lairds work with a herd of 65 cows, as many calves, 20 replacement heifers and two bulls. It's their pride and joy.

After 20 years of working with Black Angus cattle, Laird says he appreciates them more and more each year. He enjoys nothing more than going to shows and sales and meeting with people who share his interests and enthusiasm for the breed. He prefers Angus cows for their mothering and milking abilities, fewer calving problems, the absence of horns and sunburned udders, fewer calving problems and longevity. Some of their cows have lived to be 18 years old and they produced a calf every year since they turned 2.

One of the older cows Laird still has in his herd is "Spider," who received her nickname some 14 or 15 years ago due to her dairy stature. Back then no cattleman was looking for those kind of beef cows. They had to be fat and round. Laird purchased her anyway, giving $155 for her at the Pennsylvania Angus Association Sale. She turned out to be a profitable investment

"Spider," says Laird, "is the typical kind of beef aniamls that they're looking for today "

He sold the leggy cow's first daughter at seven months of age in a subseqeunt Pennsylvania Angus Sale Delaware Valley College paid $410 for the heifer calf and it topped the sale

The following year "Spider" had a second daughter. Laird kept her and tok her to the York Fair where she was chosen grand champion He presently has three more Spider daughters in his herd

A former FFA member, Laird says he started his business 20 years ago by purchasing low priced cattle "That's all I could afford," he explained, adding that "I have also paid some good prices since then, but then they didn't have such good calves either "

Like other cattlemen, Laird is aiming for individual animals which are taller and longer Fat cattle aren't in demand by either breeders or packers Laird credits the change in directions of breeding programs to the introduction of exotic breeds "In a way I was glad to see them come," he explained. "It awakened the breeder of English cattle We were getting them too compact and too fat Now we have them about where we want them - taller and longer, and less wasty. At the same time, we improved calving ease and feed efficiency while not sacrificing prime carcass qualities."

A breeder who has shown champion animals at such major shows as the Keystone International Livestock Exposition in Harrisburg and the Eastern National Livestock Show at Timonium, Md., Laird has his cows on pasture and hay. Supplemental feeding is very limited, although there is some free-choice liquid protein (urea) available during Winter months. He prefers his hay and pasture program because it fits the terrain of northcentral York County and it minimizes his investments in machinery.

Both permanent and temporary pastures are used. Hay fields are primarily brome and orchard grass. After one cutting, Laird begins moving fences until the animals eventually roam across the entire farm.

Using an outcross breeding program, Laird has most of his cows calve in March and April. Once the calves are born, they're tagged, have their navels disinfected and are given an injection of vitamins. They stay with their mothers for seven months. Creep feeding takes place only when the pasture dries up. Replacement heifers, however, receive a little grain on the side.

Laird says he has no health problems with his herd and claims "if you treat them rough, they'll treat you right." His animals are well fed and cared for, but they're not pampered

Active as a cattleman, farmer, 4-H leader, and president of two cattlemen's association in the state, Laird nonetheless finds time for a job in town "which buys the groceries " It started out to be a "temporary" job, but he has been at it for six years now, he says with a smile.

A former member of the board of directors for the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association, Laird still isn't completely satisfied with his work

"There's always room for improvement," he said, noting that this is what keeps his business interesting, challenging, and rewarding "I like Angus cattle and the people I meet who also work with the breed They're nice down-to-Earth people," he concluded.

Nellie and Walter Laird have been in the purebred Angus business for 20 of their 25 married years. The couple does all of its own work with the herd, which numbers about 150, and farm close to 300 acres of hay and pasture land, much of which is rented.

Fed cattle down in '78

HARRISBURG – Pennsylvania cattle feeders had 55,000 cattle and calves on feed July 1, 1978 for slaughter market, down 15 per cent from last year. Marketing of fed cattle during the April-June quarter at 38,000 was up 12 per cent from the same quarter a year earlier. Placements of cattle and calves on feed during April-June totaled 16,000 head, down 20 per cent from a year ago.

Expected marketings of fed cattle, if realized during the July-September 1978 quarter, at 31,000 head would be 1,000 or three per cent more than were marketed during the same period in 1977.

Cattle and calves on feed for slaughter market July 1, 1978 in the 23 major feeding states totaled 10,920,000, an increase of 12 per cent over the previous year Placements of cattle and calves in the 23 states during the April-June 1978 quarter totaled 6,529,000 head, up nine per cent from 1977

Marketing of fed cattle for slaughter during the April-June quarter totaled 6,591,000 head, up seven per cent from 1977. Expected marketings in the 23 major feeding states for July-September 1978 quarter are estimated at 6,596,000 head, up seven per cent from the same period a year ago.

Chicken barbecue held

ROBESONIA -- The Conrad Weiser Chapter of the Future Farmers of America held a chicken barbeque on July 23. Many members of the Conrad Weiser Young Farmer Association and their families braved the hot weather to attend the affair

Recreation included volleyball, quoits, and softball The FFA members served barbequed chicken, a variety of covered dish items, birch beer, and other cold drinks to the 95 persons attending the picnic

England. Myers has perfected the use of specific minerals (ionic) along with water soluble iodine, hormones, vitamins, amino acids and gland concentrates to correct specific deficiencies

Dr John Yiamouyiannis, from Delaware, Ohio, is a science director for the National Health Foundation and is active in the antifluoridation movement His talk is entitled Consumer Beware - What You Don't Know Can Hurt You. Charging that flouridated water can lead to cancer, the Ohio researcher is presently trying to get fluoridated water outlawed in Pennsylvania

An author on organic gardening subjects, Bargyla Rateaver, from California, will talk about his methods of gardening and farming

The Rev Albert Freeman Bridgewater, Mass , has a talk entitled 'You Are What You Think' A personal benefit from nutritional programs prompted him to help others in the same area, say promoters of the Natural Living Convention

Professor Curtis Shears, a founder and director of the Nutrition Science Research Institute of England He will address his audience on Saturday morning with a speech concerning recent discoveries in health and healing

Carter Hendersn, co-director of the Princeton Center for Alternative Futures will offer some suggestions on "Replacing a Tarnished American Idol - Abundant Energy

Displays, entertainment, and meals will also be available

'The display area is an exciting and educational part of the convention Each year it gets bigger and better Manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers will be showing health foods and nutritional supplements, herbal products, exercise and fitness systems, water purifiers, appliances and housewares, health resorts, natural health publications, body function tests, natural beauty cosmetics, and custom shoes," say the convention's publicity people

There will be an exhibit area at the north end of the Davis Gym which will be open all day. Visitors are asked to use the special walkway, rather than walk through the auditorium while lectures are going on Alternative energy sources and organic gardening supplies will be outside on the mall, weather permitting

The entertainment is the Little German Band from State College They will perform Sunday from noon to 2 p m

Food will be served in the dining area of the University Center and will have been prepared according to the convention's high standards Whenever possible, organic foods will be on the menu

People wishing to make reservations for meals or lodging should phone 717-837-3874.

Walker charges mismanagement in Pennsylvania food program

WASHINGTON, D C – Congressman Bob Walker on Monday released a U S Department of Agriculture audit charging that the Pennsylvania Department of Education lost control over the 1977 Summer Food Service Program for Children (SFSP), commonly known as the Summer Feeding Program

"The audit I have obtained informally reveals that the operation of the 1977 Summer Feeding Program in Pennsylvania was a classic example of government mismanagement and waste The details are devastating because they show disregard of federal regulations, disregard for the quality of services delivered and outright waste of hard-earned tax dollars," Walker said.

Walker noted, "It is significant that one of the contingency plans recommended if the mismanagement and inefficiencies are not corrected is the termination of the Pennsylvania Department of Education as the administering agency for the Summer Feeding Program."

Walker cited some specific abuses to accompany the highlighted, general deficiencies. First, 3.1 million ineligible meals were served in Philadelphia which is 48 9 per cent of all meals provided Second, 47 exact feeding site duplicates were discovered in Philadelphia, 147 sites were located within the same linear block and 414 sites existed within two linear blocks

"I am particularly appalled by one detail of the audit," Walker said

"One program sponsor received a $270,000 overpayment in 1976 and was given a $670,000 overpayment in 1977 The overpayment occurred after federal officials sent a mailgram to the Secretary of Education to give a warning about the situation. No effort was made to withhold the payment and it was made.

"The shame of this situation is that the maladministration rebounds against the truly needy children of Pennsylvania and we find another example of greed rewarded rather than need met in a well-intentioned government program," Walker stated

Hen's Best Friend

The hens at Plain and Fancy Egg Ranch Elizabethtown see so much of Ruth Bowman that she's probably the best friend they've got

Ruth may not have names for the thousands of birds she collects from twice daily but she does feel that she knows them personally After a few softly spoken words the hen posing above with Ruth responded like a highly paid professional model

You know what's funny though says Ruth out of the eight years I've been collecting eggs for Plain and Fancy I don't think I've ever seen one of them actually being laid!

The windmill

and was attached to a drive pulley that powered a variety of machines.

But then small gasoline engines came along and the windmill was relegated to a less important position, primarily pumping water.

Not much more was done to tap this vast source of energy until the last few years when people started worrying about an energy crisis. Now large sums of money are being spent to turn wind energy into useful power. A windmill is on the drawing boards now with blades that measure 300 feet from tip to tip. This contraption, being built under a 10 million dollar contract, is supposed to produce two-and-a-half megawatts of electricity. Other machines of lesser magnitude are on the design boards or are already in the field, such as one in Boone, N.C., which is expected to be operational this year.

The feeling of the researchers is that wind power may offer an economical alternative energy resource to farmers, if the cost of wind systems can be reduced. There's always that problem of having a job to do and no wind available and there's the additional problem of the tremendous demands of agriculture at peak times. So maybe windmills will never replace other forms of energy completely, but the researchers believe they will provide an alternative and a very valuable supplement.

One hitch in the windmill business is the storage of electrical energy. As one industry spokesman points out, batteries haven't been improved much since the 1920's. A breakthrough in storage technology would go a long way toward making wind-generated electricity a reality on American farms.

The neatest windmill irrigation system I've heard of was operated several years ago in Texas. In that installation, a windmill pumped water from a well into an overhead tank. The tank was tied to an underground trickle irrigation system. Pressure was provided by the height of the storage tank. So all the system needed to work was some wind. When the wind blew the tank filled and the trickle irrigation system kept an otherwise barren piece of ground producing lush pasture for Texas beef cattle. It operated 24 hours a day and required virtually no supervision or maintenance.

The energy crisis has caused a revival of the windmill. It will be interesting to see what a few more years of windpower research will produce.

New York dairy assessment bill called 'deceptive' by Eastern

SYRACUSE, N.Y. – A bill now awaiting executive action by New York Governor Hugh Carey is being adamently opposed by Eastern Milk Producers, the largest dairy cooperative in New York State. If enacted, the legislation would permit the rate of assessment against New York's dairy farmers to be increased by separate amendment of the state's milk promotion order without consideration of the whole order.

In its veto request, Eastern noted that enactment of this bill not only would contradict long-established and widely-accepted principles of law and economic regulation, but would place too much control in the hands of special interest groups at the expense of all dairy farmers.

Unfortunately, according to Joseph Mathis, Eastern's economist, there has been little, if any, disclosure to dairy farmers that this legislation is under consideration.

The current milk promotion order requires all New York State dairy farmers to contribute five cents a hundredweight from their milk checks each month to fund milk promotion and nutrition research programs on state and national levels.

That order was approved earlier this year by a bare majority of the producers in New York State after they were told that such approval would not mean an increase in the assessment rate. "Enactment of this legislation to permit easy approval of rate increases in the future would be deceptive at best and an injustice at worst," stressed Mathis.

Lebanon County DHIA Monthly Report

JUNE 1978

A record of 24,050 pounds of milk with a 3.6 per cent test and 869 pounds of butterfat almost gave "Sissy" a place at the top of both production lists, but "Number 67" edged her in the butterfat column by four pounds.

"Sissy", a 4-year old Holstein at Arnold Acres, handily won the milk production crown, however. "Number 67," owned by Bennetch Brothers, is a 6-year old who recorded 20,366 pounds of milk, a 4.3 test, and 873 pounds of butterfat for her lactation.

Holstein officers re-elected

LOUISVILLE, Ky. -- Delegates attending the National Convention of the Holstein Association unanimously reelected President W. R. (Dick) Brooks, Boulder, Colo. and Vice President Ivan Strickler, Iola, Kans.

The election was conducted during the 93rd annual meeting, which was held here last month.

Brooks is co-owner and operator of Paclamar Farms at Boulder, Colorado. Through his knowledge and understanding of dairy cattle genetics, he developed one of the most widely recognized herds in Holstein history. Brooks was given the "Breeder of the Year Award" at World Dairy Expo.

Brooks is a widely known dairy cattle judge and has judged major shows in Brazil, Peru, Mexico, and Japan, as well as throughout the United States.

As a member of the national HFA board, Brooks was chairman of the Rules and Executive Committees. He was also president and vice-president of the Holstein-Freisian Association of Colorado. Brooks is now serving as president of the National Purebred Dairy Cattle Association. Previously, he served two terms as its vice-president.

Brooks served as a national HFA director for eight years and vice-president for two years before being elected president in June, 1977.

Strickler served on the national HFA board from 1964 to 1972. He chaired the Extension Committee for six years and served seven years on the Milk Marketing Committee. In addition, he has held most of the official positions in his state Holstein Association.

Strickler has judged national diary shows in Brazil, Argentina and Ecuador and many state shows in the United States.

Strickler is secretary of the corporate board of Mid-America Dairymen, the second largest milk cooperative in the United States. He is a member of the Agriculture Education and Research Committee for Kansas State University. Strickler also serves as a member of the board of directors for World Dairy Expo, Madison, Wisconsin. He is a member of the Dairy Shrine Executive Board and is completing his second term as president of the National Dairy Shrine Club.

Strickler's herd of 120 Holsteins maintains a DHIR average of 19,000 pounds of milk and 700 pounds of fat.

W.R. Brooks, left, and Ivan Strickler, were re-elected last month to their posts of president and vice-president, respectively, of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

Lebanon Countians express concern over conservation needs

LEBANON – Lebanon County citizens expressed their conservation priorities at a Resource Conservation Act meeting held recently. Flooding, urban sprawl, preservation of agriculture land and agriculture business, water quality and conservation were major concerns reports Karl Hellerick of the Soil Conservation Service. The meeting was co-sponsored by the SCS and the Lebanon County Conservation District.

According to local citizens, water quality from wells and in the streams is a problem Streams that support fish life will also supply quality water for residential and industrial uses. Urban development served by public sewer and water would maintain water quality, reduce urban sprawl, and take less land from agriculture use. The use of sewer plant discharges for irrigation was suggested as a means of recycling nutrients and ground water recharge.

Increased flooding caused by building in the flood plain and increased flood flows caused by street, parking lots, and roofs is a major concern. Storm water management would allow development without increasing peak run off flows. Hellerick stated all comments and concerns will be listed in the report for the Lebanon County District and for the Resource Conservation Act.

New energy sought

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Proposals for pilot projects to convert renewable agricultural products, including poultry manure, into fuel supplies are being sought by USDA. Organizations that submit acceptable proposals will be eligible for a government loan which guarantees up to $15 million to finance their pilot project. Proposals must be submitted before October 16. Contact USDA for details on procedures for submission, evaluation criteria and program goals.

Holstein sale breaks records

LOUISVILLE, Ky. – The National Convention Holstein Sale, held here last month, broke all previous averages by a wide margin. Eighty-eight Holsteins averaged $9,482. This year's sale also witnessed the highest selling animal ever sold at a national convention sale. Paclamar Missile, a February bull calf, sold for $131,000. He is sired by Tidy Burke Elevation and out of the EX-93-2E Paclamar Reflection Millie. "Missile" was purchased by a syndicate from the western states and was consigned by Paclamar Farm, Boulder, Colo.

Starting off the sale, the original casting of the new Holstein model cow, Holsti, was sold to Charles Augur, Winter Place Farm, Winslow, Maine for $7,000. The model was introduced to convention delegates during the annual meeting by Don Collins, chairman of the True Type Model Cow Committee. The committee spent nearly two years developing the model. This model cow replaces the one that has represented the breed since 1922.

Also during the convention, the delegate body passed the bylaw amendment proposal on nominating procedures. It establishes a seven member committee, appointed by the president, that will nominate one or more persons for each of the offices of president, vice president and directors.

The delegates also approved a bylaw amendment proposal which prevents automatic reregistration of Holsteins from the Canadian herdbook that have been bred outside of that country. It simply leaves the responsibility of deciding which animals enter the herdbook in the hands of the delegates and board of directors. The amendment does not affect automatic reregistry of Canadian bred animals.

Paclamar Missile, a February bull calf sired by Tidy Burke Elevation, topped the Holstein National Convention Sale at $131,000. Missile was purchased by a syndicate of breeders from the western states and was consigned by Paclamar Farms, Boulder, Colorado.

Chicken barbecue set for Aug. 9

FLEMINGTON – The annual chicken bar-b-que sponsored by the Hunterdon County 4-H Association has been scheduled for August 9, according to Louisa Cole, Neshanic Station, chairman of the planning committee. The affiar will be held on Flemington fairgrounds with serving taking place from 5 to 7 p.m.

Tickets are available in the Hunterdon 4-H office, Extension Center, Route 31, north of Flemington. Adult tickets are priced at $4.25 and children 12 and under, $2.

The bar-b-que is an activity of 4-H Achievement Days, an annual series of shows and contests involving many of the 4-H project areas.

More than 1.3 billion pounds of U.S. government inspected bacon and almost 1.6 billion pounds of federally inspected hot dogs were produced in 1977.

RED BARN COW MATS

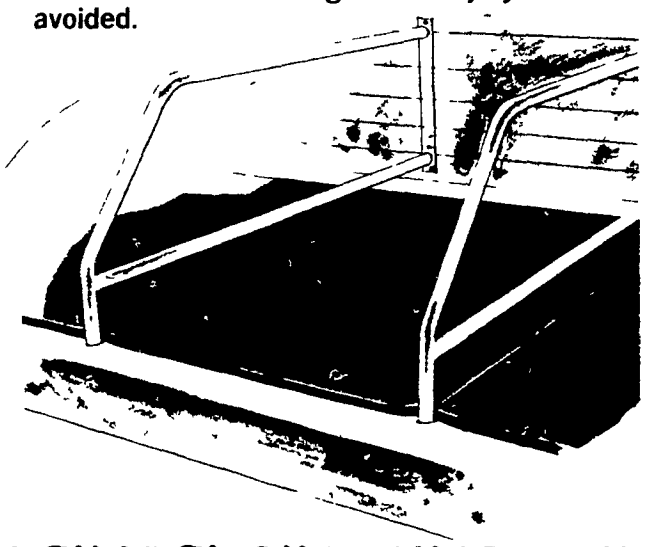
SAVE $5 PER MAT BY PICKING THEM UP YOURSELF

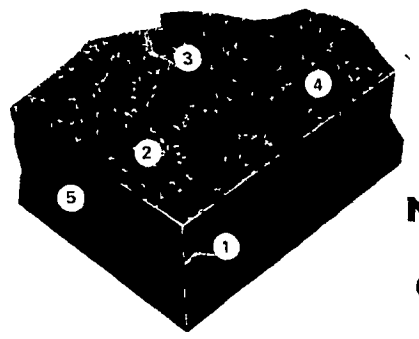
Why and How RED BARN Rubber Mats can reduce costs, cut injuries.

RED BARN floors are 100% vulcanized rubber. They were first manufactured and installed in 1968, and have proven their worth to dairymen ever since. Whether these mats are used in free stalls or stanchion barns, their non-slip qualities provide both comfort and safety for your herd. Dairymen everywhere report bedding cost reductions of 80% and more, and a dramatic decrease in clean-up time. Slips and falls that result in swollen hocks and stepped-on teats are all but eliminated.

LABOUR COSTS CUT DRAMATICALLY

RED BARN rubber flooring cuts free stall cleaning time to a minimum. One dairyman with 165 stalls averages only 15 minutes per day to keep ALL stalls clean (testimonial on request). Because RED BARN mats are tough, depressions cannot develop that require filling, as is often the case with other types of flooring. Broken dividers causing animal injury are also avoided.





NOTE THESE SPECIAL QUALITIES

1. RED BARN is the thickest mat there is, measuring over ¾".
2. Surface has a grained, pebbled texture for easy cleaning and non-slip qualities.
3. Surface is resilient for comfort, yet springs back to original form.
4. TOUGH. Each mat contains over 100 pounds of vulcanized rubber. NO WIRE, METAL OR CLOTH BONDING MATERIALS ARE USED.
5. RED BARN is non-absorbent.

Penn State's research farm sets 'open house'

LANDISVILLE – Current research with farm crops will be featured August 1 during an "open house" at the Southeastern Field Research Laboratory of Penn State, located here in Lancaster County. Underway from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., the field day will be the largest event of the year at the research farm, according to John O. Yocum, superintendent.

The event will stress developments in hybrid corn, soybeans, forage crops, potatoes, tobacco, and wine grapes, Yocum accounced. He said the event should appeal especially to farmers, seedsmen, and retailers of farm products. College of Agriculture faculty members from Penn State will be on hand to describe the research and to answer questions.

Farmers will see a complete planting of the Extension Hybrid Corn Trials. Hybrids for short, medium, and long growing seasons will be featured. The growth and development of 144 commercial corn hybrids will be seen. Yocum indicated increasing costs of fuel for drying corn has stimulated grower interest in the shorter season hybrids.

Other corn experiments will show the effects of residual nitrogen from legumes. Insecticide trials will show effective methods of controlling aphids on tobacco.

Commercial varieties of soybeans will be compared with those released by state universities. Visitors will see plots using herbicides to control weeds in soybeans. Some herbicide experiments will show the results of "double cropping" soybeans after barley in no-tillage fields as well as herbicides in conventionally planted soybeans.

Potato growers will see the results of early planting and early harvest. This year's plots were planted April 11. Yields will be shown from various varieties, the best thus far being Norland and Superior.

Experiments with forage crops will include new clover varieties. Alfalfa plots will show trials with seveal varieties and different fertility levels. Variety trials will also include crownvetch.

Seventeen varieties of wine grapes will be shown at the August 1 field day. Good aspects, as well as problems with the varieties, will be discussed. Visitors will be informed of yields, disease resistance, and tolerance for high temperatures.

The following directions are given for reaching the Southeastern Field Research Laboratory at Landisville. Coming from the west, take Route 283 east toward Lancaster. Get off at the Salunga exit and turn left. Immediately after crossing over Route 283, turn right onto Auction Road.

Traveling from the east, take Route 283 west toward Harrisburg. Get off at the Salunga-Landisville exit Turn right onto Spooky Nook Road. Proceed to a covered bride and go through the bridge. Turn right onto Auction Road.

Driving from the north or from the Pa. Turnpike, take Pa 72 toward Lancaster. Go through Manheim. One mile below Manheim turn right onto Auction Road immediately after passing the Manheim Auction.

The latest in crop management, including weed and pest control, will be featured August 1 at Penn State's research farm near Landisville.

Broilers up

HARRISBURG -- Placements of broiler chicks in the Commonwealth during the week ending July 15 were 14 per cent more than the same week a year ago, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service.

The placements totaled 2,024,000, two per cent more than the previous week. Average placements in the past 10 weeks were 11 per cent above a year earlier.

Placements of broiler chicks in the 21 poultry-producing states were 71,487,000, five per cent below the previous week but 10 per cent more than the same week a year earlier.

Average placements in the 21 poultry-producing states during the past ten weeks were eight per cent more than a year ago.

The number of broiler-fryers slaughtered in Pennsylvania under federal inspection in the week ending July 5 were 1,690,000, with an average weight of 3.86 pounds.

In 1977, Australia, New Zealand and Argentina all topped the U.S. in per capita consumption of red meats.

Vydate L registered for use against Colorado potato beetle

HARRISBURG – State Agriculture Secretary Kent Shelhamer has announced that the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture has registered for special local need the insecticide Vydate L as an aid in controlling Colorado beetle for the remainder of the growing season.

Shelhamer said that Vydate L is now available to Pennsylvania growers, "and should prove effective since the beetle has not been exposed to this chemical in Pennsylvania.

Our Department entomologists have surveyed potato acreage in Columbia, Luzerne and Schuylkill Counties and discovered that other registered insecticides have not been giving adequate control," Shelhamer said. "In recent years, DDT had brought the pest under control, but when DDT was banned, the beetle multiplied quickly. This problem has been magnified in the past two or three years because the Colorado potato beetle developed a tolerance to many of the insecticides registered for use against it."

Although potatoes are the major crop damaged by this pest, Shelhamer said that tomatoes can also be seriously damaged. Occasionally the beetle will attack egg plant, peppers, and tobacco.

Shelhamer said that Vydate L is being made available to potato growers under special provisions of the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act, Section 24C, Special Local Need Registration. Under this provision registered labels can be amended to handle special pest problems by means of issuing supplemental labeling which relates to the need.

In order for commercial growers to use this material to control the Colorado potato beetle, they must have a copy of the 24C label which provides detailed information on its use with potatoes. Copies of this label are available through the Pesticide Division of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture in Harrisburg or through county extension agents.

Shelhamer noted that as is the case with all pesticides, this material must be used in strict accordance with label directions and all precautionary measures must be observed.

Solanco 4-H club has picnic

PEQUEA – Members of the Solanco 4-H Community Club met recently for an evening cook-out at Muddy Run Park. During the meeting, Nature Club members presented a program on their projects for this year.

Plans for the Community Club annual round-up to be held at the fair building in Quarryville on August 11 at 7:30 p.m. were also announced. All parents and other interested persons are invited to view the members' projects which will have been judged for prizes. Nancy Henkel, a 1977 International Foreign Youth Exchangee to Belgium, will present part of the program including slides of her trip and information on the IFYE program.

Canadian Young Farmers visit Lancaster Co

Pam Ness, Scott Templeton, Kim Kyle, and host Cherri Gochnauer all take a moment from the week's activities to pose for a picture.

LANCASTER -- The second part of a two-way exchange trip was accomplished this week when 43 Canadian Young Farmers spent eight days living, playing, and working with 4-H'ers in Lancaster County. Last year the local 4-H'ers traveled to the Chateauguay Valley in the province of Quebec to live with families there.

From all indications, the exchange has been successful. Mrs. Janet Scoble, one of the Canadian chaperones, said, "The kids enjoyed it so much when the 4-H'ers from Lancaster came up last Summer; they really looked forward to it this year. They like to socialize."

The schedule gave the group lots of time for socializing: They had a trip to Hershey park, a visit to Landis Valley Farm Museum and a farm-industry tour which included Victor F. Weaver Inc., Sperry-New Holland Company, Lapp Valley Farms, the Pequea Meadow dairy farm, and D.M. Stoltzfus beef farm. The final social event was a dance at the Farm and Home Center Friday night.

Chaperone Bob Scoble said, "I think it is important that kids get to see different ways. It helps them change their ideas, hopefully for the good. Otherwise they don't know what's available."

Most of the Young Farmers agreed that the exchange trip gave them a valuable opportunity to live in homes and get to know people and their customs. Judy Templeton summed it up, "I think it is good to learn how different people live."

Judy and Joy Cairncross are visiting in the Robert E. Gregory family at Lititz, and had the opportunity to travel through the countryside and observe some Amish customs. They were fascinated. "I am surprised at how many different religions you have. I have heard of the Amish, but I never thought people lived like that," Judy said. Joy quickly chimed in, "I wouldn't be able to get by without my curling iron and hair dryer."

Pam Ness, fieldman for the Young Farmers, said, "The Amish-type farmers are very different - we had heard a lot about them. Th best part of the exchange to get to meet and kno people, and learn difference in food and ways of life. A bi advantage is that it bring the kids closer travelin together like this, and tha will help us work togethe when we get home."

A student at McGi University, Pam works as fieldman for th organization in the Summe She explains that th organization is very simila to 4-H, and the age range members is from ten to 2 The majority of those i volved in the exchange com from four clubs in th Chateauguay Valley, wit several invited from outsid the region to help fill the bus

The groups meet yea round and have both ha dicraft projects and "calf projects. Usually, meeting are held more frequently fo those in the calf project clos to show time, Pam said. was explained that calve are shown in two classe from Jan. 1 through June 3 and from July 1 throug December 30. Each yea members get a new calf for project, and one advantag is that young member

The best part of the exchange is to get to meet and know people, and learn differences in food and ways of life. A big advantage is that it brings the kids closer traveling together like this, and that will help us work together when we get home."

A student at McGill University, Pam works as a fieldman for the organization in the Summer. She explains that the organization is very similar to 4-H, and the age range of members is from ten to 20. The majority of those involved in the exchange come from four clubs in the Chateauguay Valley, with several invited from outside the region to help fill the bus.

The groups meet year round and have both handicraft projects and "calf" projects. Usually, meetings are held more frequently for those in the calf project close to show time, Pam said. It was explained that calves are shown in two classes, from Jan. 1 through June 30 and from July 1 through December 30. Each year members get a new calf for a project, and one advantage is that young members never have the trouble of handling mature animals in the show ring.

Handicraft projects may range from quilting to making Christmas decorations to making wall plaques, and there are also garden projects.

Pam said, "The clubs are all run by the members and adult volunteer leaders, with no government aid." She proudly related how the clubs raised almost all the money for the trip, so that each member needed to pay just $20 from his own pocket. The clubs sponsored dances, and a dairy booth at the fair to help defray expenses. The Scobles noted, "Pam was always there to make sure things got done." Pam is staying in the home of Cherri Gochnauer, Centerville Road, Lancaster.

Jim Kyle talked about one of the most noticeable difference between the Chateauguay Valley and this country. "We have a shorter growing season there."

Mike Duncan said, "Most of us won't start the grain harvest for three weeks. The weather at home is about the same - pretty warm. By November snow will fly."

Two chaperones on the Canadian trip, Bob and Janet Schoble, on the left, take time for a break with 4-H agent Linda Franz and host Kathy Fisher who pours everyone a drink.

Cynthia Milne added, "I noticed that the grain was ripe when we arrived here, and at home it is still green." Cynthia, who is staying at the Earl Huber home in Conestoga added, "It is much more hilly here than at home."

The Scobles said the Chateguay Valley is very flat, with a river running through it. The average farm in the valley is from 200 to 300 acres, with the dairying as largest farming interest. There are predominantly Holsteins and Ayrshires and some Jerseys. Some cash crops are now being grown, Scoble noted, but mostly to fill the needs of a Green Giant cannery located there. Peas, beans, and corn are raised for canning. Scoble added that a well-managed hay field, with good cooperation from the weather could yield three cuttings. Two cuttings is more common and there are some farms which manage only one cutting with the

The MF 760 and MF 750 Combines offer a host of behind-the-scenes features that make them leading performers in big-capacity harvesting operations

6 11-bar open-grate concave is fully adjustable, both front and rear, for thorough threshing

7 6-blade rotary rear beater cleanly strips the cylinder and moves the crop onto the straw walkers It insures that every inch of straw walker area is used.

8 High-speed straw walkers offer large separation area 8,478 sq in (54700 cm²) on the MF 760, 7,284 sq in (46996 cm²) on the MF 750 Result Less grain loss and more in the bin

9 MF exclusive Triple Screen Cascade Shoe provides a "cascading" material flow that prevents matting and improves cleaning of the grain

10 Large variable-speed fan (617-1,100 rpm) delivers the proper volume of evenly distributed air across the entire shoe

11 MF's exclusive Rasp Bar Returns Cylinder threshes crop tailings. There's no cracking of already threshed grain by dumping tailings back into the main cylinder

12 High-capacity clean grain system reduces bottlenecks in high capacity crops . moves up to 2,000 bu (70 m³) per hour in the MF 760, 1,600 bu (56 m³) per hour in the MF 750

Berks Co. names participants for regional dress revue

KUTZTOWN – For 10 4-H;ers in Berks County, July 27 will be a special day. They have been selected to represent the county at the Southeast Region 4-H Fashion Revue in Media. The event will begin at 9:30 a.m. in the Granite Run Mall, says Mae D. Bleiler, Extension home economist.

4-H'ers who will take part in the regional revue are: Junior Division - "Stitch Your Own" - Laurie Reber, Bern Boosters, Main St., Leesport; "Stitch An Outfit" - Steven Kauffman, Shartlesville Club, Shartlesville; "School Outfit" - Stephanie Kauffman, Shartlesville Club, Shartlesville; "Create With Fabrics" - Kathy Fies, Bern Boosters, Reading R2.

Senior Division - Diane Evans, Kutztown Club, Maxatawny; Julie Fies, Bern Boosters, Reading; Eileen Fisher, Conrad Weiser Club, Robesonia; Jackie Henne, Shartlesville Club, Bernville; Julie Mills, Conrad Weiser Club, Robesonia; and Christine Wolfe, Bern Boosters, Leesport.

These 4-H'ers started their costumes at the beginning of the 4-H club year. In addition to their sewing they had the opportunity to develop grace and poise, habits of good grooming, skill in decision-making and to help plan the county dress revue.

Berks County Senior Division 4-H'ers will compete with those selected from other counties in the Southeast Region. The four top regional winners will be awarded gold ribbons. Each county contestant will receive a certificate of participation and a medal of honor.

The four gold ribbon winners from the Southeast Region will compete with the top winners from each of the other eight regions for state honors. The state winner will be selected August 8 at Penn State University, University Park Campus during State 4-H Achievement Days. Thirty-five 4-H'ers will participate in this event. The state winner will get an expense paid trip to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago, on November 26 to 30.

The Cooperative Extension Service of the University sponsors the State Fashion Revue program. Simplicity Pattern Company, sponsor of the national 4-H Revue program, provides the county medals and the trip to Congress.

Canadian Young Farmers

aftergrowth going for pasture.

Spring comes later in that portion of Quebec. Scoble said, "You're lucky if you can start working by the beginning of May." In the Winter, he noted, "Our snow comes and stays." The Scobles, who are guests of Jay and Kathy Fisher, Stevens R 1, are dairy farmers who also have maple sugar trees. In discussing the processing of the syrup, Scoble said that it takes 35 gallons of sap to make one gallon of maple syrup.

Charles Pirie noticed, "The farming here is a lot more diversified than at home. There everyone has beef or dairy and grows crops accordingly." He added that on his dairy farm the primary crops are field corn, oats, barley and hay, which usually yields two cuttings and occasionally a third.

He said he feels there is a wider mix of nationalities in his home area, with a predominate group of Scottish and Irish backgrounds.

One real advantage of the exchange in Charles' words, "It helps to broaden our scope and see other parts of the world." Charles speaks proudly of his "predominantly showing herd" of Registered Holsteins, and said, "The more you show the more publicity you get." He also expressed some interest in traveling still further before he settles permanantly into farming.

Jamie Rankin, along with Charles, is visiting with Jim Stauffer's family at 345 Weaver Road, Lancaster. Jamie said he is enjoying the visit because he likes to see different ways of farming. "I like to meet other people and see different styles." Having potatoes and tobacco as cash crops is new to him. He observed, "We don't have as many cash crops. We grow mostly corn, hay, and some grains." To Jamie it was interesting that the 4-H'ers involved in the exchange from Lancaster County are not all acquainted. He said he knows all his neighbors and other rural people, and all the Young Farmers know each other because they attend one school.

Mrs. Stauffer said the visit has been educational for the whole family. "We get involved in political discussion and interact on what we discuss." She has also served her guests some Pennsylvania Dutch foods.

When asked about differences, one small group of Canadians readily answered, "language". The province of Quebec is French-speaking, they explained, and all signs are in French with French being taught in the schools. Although nearly the whole group of Young Farmers come from English-speaking families, they can all understand French. But one young man said, "You could go a long time without speaking any French."

Host Jim Stauffer, on the right, talks about the next work project with his Canadian guests Charles Pirie and Jamie Rankin.

There was also some good natured joking at the Stauffer home about some differences in inflections in speaking English, and the Canadian habit of adding "eh?" to a sentence.

The farms in the Chateauguay Valley are laid out in rectangles, so most farm buildings are located in one corner of the rectangle, with the roads being long and straight. This makes the appearance of Lancaster County farmsteads somewhat different.

Scott Templeton said what many expressed about the people and life in Lancaster County, "I didn't find any big differences."

In the short week, friendships were renewed and cultures were shared. The Chateauguay Valley Young Farmers and the Lancaster County 4-H'ers helped forge a closer bond between the two neighbors.

When is silage more than silage? When You've added HY-SI!

HY-SI SILAGE

You'll suddenly have more than silage when HY-SI Silage Improver goes to work. More lactic acid. More cell solubles. More energy. More TDN. Used properly, this exciting product more than pays for itself in more feeding value (and that's greater return per acre, to boot!) and produces results like these:

	Fresh-cut crop, Unensiled	Regular silage no additive	More than silage with HY SI
PH	5 7	4 8	4 3
Fat	3 10%	4 02%	5 39%
Lactic acid	23%	3 78%	5 61%
Cell solubles	42 78%	38 81%	46 92%
TDN	64 66%	69 96%	71 51%

Call or write for details today. This is the year to fill your silo with something more than silage!

Lancaster Holstein breeders schedule their picnic for Aug. 1

LANCASTER – August 1 is the date for the annual Lancaster County Holstein Club field day, to be held at the farm of Jay Landis, 166 Short Lane, Lancaster. There will be judging to begin promptly at 10:00 a.m. with Maryland Breeder Bill Kepler serving as official judge. Prizes will be awarded to top judges in three categories.

At noon there will be a chicken barbecue lunch, followed by an afternoon of informaton from your state and national association, remarks by Lancaster County agent Alan Bair and the current Lancaster County dairy princess, Joyce Stoltzfus.

Tickets for the chicken barbecue lunch will be $2.30, and reservatons must be made by July 27 with Chariman John Barley, R.D. 2, Conestoga, Pa. 17516. His phone is 717-872-4058. Please make reservations promptly to make sure there's a lunch for you.

Directions to the Landis farm are as follows: Traveling south on the Millersville Road from Millersville, travel about one mile, crossing the Conestoga Creek and passing Circle M Camping Ranch, then turn right onto Short Lane. From New Danville travel north on Millersville Road and turn left onto Short Lane. The farm is at the end of Short Lane.

A calf will be awarded to an eligible youth. To qualify, the young person must be between the ages of 8 and 15 and must be a member of 4-H or FFA, and a junior Holstein Club member. A winner must be a resident of Lancaster County and the calf must be raised with acceptable management practices and be shown next year. Anyone interested and qualified may register on Field Day. Winners are not eligible for subsequent drawings. Anyone having a January calf which might be suitable for the prize, please contact Greg Landis.

In addition to Chairman John Barley, committee members for field day include J. Wilmer Eby (285-4222) and Sylvan Ressler (687-7304). They've worked hard to plan a good field day. Make your reservations now. Contact any committee member or directors with questions.

Perfect for:

Greenhouses - flower beds
Vegetable gardens - etc.

The polyethylene formula tank is reinforced by a steel frame and blow-molded in one seamless, non-corrosive piece.

Contoured design of the entire unit keeps the center of gravity very close to the operator's back. This and the padded back and straps reduce operator fatique to a minimum, especially as engine vibrations are eliminated by heavy-duty shock mounts.

410 B w/
BLOWER ATTACHMENT

For single-purpose use as air broom, the 410 blower is available in a special lightweight version without formula tank, formula hoses and nozzles. Hungary gets HFAA award

LOUISVILLE, Ky. – With dairymen of six countries represented at last month's annual meeting of the Holstein Association here, the international impact of U.S. Holstein cattle was clearly evident.

For nearly a full week, 1,800 Holstein family members and foreign guests enjoyed the southern hospitality of the Kentucky Holstein Association, toured the Blue Grass Country, participated in educational seminars, conducted Association business and learned how U.S. Holsteins are changing the face of the dairy industry world-wide.

Highlight of the business session on June 28-29 was the presentation of HFA's first "Joint Effort Award" to the Ministry of Agriculture of Hungary.

The USDA's assistant secretary of agriculture for international affairs, Dr. Dale E. Hathaway, assisted in the recognition and said the Holstein Association's contribution to world agricultural development was one of the most outstanding examples of an effective working relationship between the private sector of the United States and another government.

The U.S. Holstein-Hungarian project began five years ago when an agreement was reached with the Holstein Association to provide Hungary a continuing supply of breeding cattle, plus the backup of technical assistance. Since 1973, top quality Holsteins have been shipped by plane, boat and truck to state farms and farmer cooperatives in Hungary. In total, 15,000 U.S. Holsteins now live in Hungary and more than one-third of Hungary's cattle are involved in the Holstein breeding program. Performance of the U.S. cattle has been outstanding with Holstein matings resulting in a quick 2,500 pound per cow increase. Last year, for the first time, Hungary produced enough milk for its people. The technical assistance program has worked smoothly, with U.S. specialists making recommendations for management and breeding improvements. A three-year assistance contract was completed a year ago and immediately renewed by the Hungarians for a second three-year term.

A delegation of Hungarian agricultural officials, headed by Vice Minister Jeno Vansca, second from left, displays "Joint Effort Award" plaque. The Joint Effort Award was presented by the Holstein Association in recognition of Hungary's progress in establishing the Holstein breed in that country. U.S. breeders have assisted by exporting 15,000 Holsteins to the Eastern European country during the last five years.

Michigan dairymen visited on farm tour

Editor's Note: The following article is a feature story about two of five farms visited recently on a tour organized by Penn-Jersey and Pennsylvania Harvestore.

By JOANNE SPAHR

YALE, Mich.--Jim Nabonzny might not be the oldest dairyman in the business, and he might not have the largest herd in the world, but through meticulous care, feeding, and breeding of his 28 head of Holsteins, he has won a reputation for excellence in his home state of Michigan. And, he's only been at it for seven years.

In his mid-twenties, Jim had the third highest classified herd in Michigan last year and this year he is "shooting for the top," he says. Adding to his success, his herd is averaging 20,350 pounds of milk and 731 pounds of fat.

How does he do it? By following the philosophy that with only a few head of cattle a dairyman has to choose quality. For instance, he uses a lot of Round Oak Rag Apple Elevation and Fond Matt semen in breeding, and although he admits it is more expensive to breed this way, he thinks it is worth it, because of the progeny it produces.

"I like the offspring," he says, "and, it's definitely the route I want to go. With just a few you have to choose quality."

Although he raises most of his young cattle, he did purchase one animal he is extremely proud of He bought her as a 2- year-old and last year she won her class at district competition. This year she was first in her class out of 25 or 30 3-year-olds and was also awarded best udder recognition.

"In 212 days she gave just over 19,700 pounds of milk and a little more than 700 pounds of fat On high moisture corn and haylage she gave 124 pounds a day for three months," he says. "Now that's some cow" Nabonzny adds that as a 2-year-old she was classified 87 and this September she will be scored again. At that time, he has hopes that she will be an Excellent cow.

Jim began farming seven years ago, and at that time he had only 14 cows on an 80 acre farm. Presently, he farms 200 acres, renting the extra land

Knowing that he had to enlarge the operation in order to buy it from his parents, Jim decided to invest in a blue silo for haylage and one for high moisture corn. Then two years ago he doubled his herd to 28 cows

"They're an all registered herd," he notes. "I'm not after volume--I have a few real typey cows."

Nabonzny's feeding program consists of haylage and high moisture corn. He says he overfeeds on the high moisture corn because he believes that "you have to feed for them to produce" He never feeds corn silage for he has found that it tests lower in protein than haylage, so he feeds all the haylage they can eat.

His mineral company balances the rations, and he has found that before he fed haylage he was using twice

NFO slates mass meeting 'for action on farm pricing'

CORNING, Iowa – In 20,000 letters to farmers and their leaders across the nation, President Oren Lee Staley of the National Farmers Organization (NFO) announced a mass meeting of farmers "for action on farm pricing" at Veterans Auditorium in Des Moines, Iowa on Thursday, August 3 at 12:30 p.m.

Staley's letter told the recipients that it would be a "decision making meeting on big issues" in which farmers and ranchers attending would be asked to participate.

Quoting a national business letter to the effect that in the early 1980's 250,000 farmers would produce 92 per cent of the nation's farm products, Staley said that time is short for farmers with less than a $2 million line of bank credit to survive in the farming business unless, by joint action, farm prices are pushed up to a cost-of-production-plus level.

"It will be a decision making meeting on big issues," Staley wrote. "There will be no appeals for funds or commitments for funds. The numbers who attend will be an important part in a decision. The discussion will center around organized farm power comparable to Big Business Power, Labor Power, Black Power, and other existing power groups."

The recipients were asked to line up two busloads of farmers from each county in the nation to come to Des Moines.

"There will be a brief presentation of what the National Farmers Organization has built to implement collective bargaining for Agriculture, but no long speeches," Staley said.

"Farmers want cost of production. Time to achieve it is short if more than one out of seven present farmers are to survive in agriculture. Within the year, there must be a great surge forward in organizing FARM POWER or the opportunity to save family farming will be lost."

In 1977, U.S. farmers grossed nearly $28 billion from the sale of meat animals.

Life on the farm

Combining is an experience

Paddling its way across a sea of rye, the "teeth" of the combine quickly reduce a field of waving grain to a carpet of stubble.

Standing beneath the superstructure of the combine, Charles Richardson looks into its "belly." His machine is one of the new rotary combines that's on the market.

By DIETER KRIEG

FAWN GROVE — The modern combine is a machine to behold. For $70,000, which is what Charles Richardson paid for his crop-chewing metal monster, one might say it should be.

Richardson, who farms close to 1000 acres in southern York County, is owner of one of the most modern harvesting machines on the market today - an Axial-Flow combine from the International Harvester Company. They're part of a new generation of harvesting machines and several of the major manufacturers have these "rotary combines" in stock. Richardson is one man who is well pleased with the performance of these new grain reapers.

"They have done everything to take the driver fatigue out of it," Richardson comments as he climbs into the cab of the 12-foot high shiny red machine. The 436 cubic-inch, 170 horsepower engine springs to life and a constant muffled roar is heard outside. It's 96 degrees in the shade. But inside the cab it's a comfortable 70-75 degrees and the noise is barely audible.

"Let's go," the tall, slender farmer says, giving me the opportunity to ride a combine for the first time in years. We sit high above the ground surrounded by tinted glass which allows full view of the action up front. The 180-bushel grain storage tank is visible through a wide window at the rear of the cab.

Richardson's earlier statement about driver fatigue becomes quickly apparent as we drive to the Robert Morris farm, just outside of this southern York County town. The huge metal giant moves with ease and surprisingly smooth. The hot July sun can't play its tricks inside the cab. There's no dust to irritate skin, eyes, and lungs. The operator's controls are handy. In fact, there are only a few controls the driver has to be concerned with. A massive network of electronic sensors keeps "an eye" on operating conditions. Hydraulics provide power in countless ways A console to the right of the driver is fully instrumented with gauges, lights, and even a beeper in case the operator fails to see the warnings flashed by gauges and needles. Up front, under the roof, is a small electronic box which monitors six combine functions: fan,

Charles Richardson, center, uses his combine on hundreds of acres throughout southern York County The more acres, the quicker he'll pay off a machine which costs $70,000

An adjustable steering column and a fully instrumented · control console are featured in Richardson's modern combine.

Men, a tractor, bin wagon, and pick-up truck are dwarfed by the huge combine. The tires alone attest to the fact that it is a giant.

shoe, tailings auger, grain auger, rotary air screen, and discharge beater. If any shaft slows to less than 70 per cent of its designed speed, an audible alarm sounds and a digital display indicates the affected function.

Richardson explains and demonstrates that both the steering column and armrests are adjustable. Should the sight of golden fields of grain winding around the York County hills become boring, there's an FM radio and tape deck built in. A CB radio keeps Richardson in touch with the family and hired assistants.

For a moment my mind spins back to 25 years ago when horse-drawn reapers and binders were in style. These machines, and especially the thresher, used to fascinate me from dusk to dark when I was a boy. Now, surrounded by glass and an artificial climate, I miss the heat, sweat, dust, and distinctive smell of straw. But it isn't long before I get at least a little taste of that.

The grain head, which follows the contour of the field automatically, picked up a stone. It gets stuck in the throat of the combine. We descend from our cool loft and say hello to the penetrating heat. Richardson and his fieldman, Ken Zimmerman, remove the stone and we're on our way again.

The 15-foot wide reel paddles its way across the sea of rye, and the cutterbar cuts swift and clean. The crop is augered into the throat at a seemingly fantastic rate of speed. "It's going to clog up any second," I think to myself, but I'm wrong. The crop contiues to be stuffed into the metal giant and it keeps right on digesting it. According to Richardson, he can cut up to 4½ acres of grain per hour, which is good for the relatively small and sometimes hilly fields of southcentral Pennsylvania.

"The most wonderful thing I've found in a combine is this hydrostatic drive," Richardson comments as we drive along. With power assisted controls, the machine responds swift and sure. Turns at the end of the field looked easy

"What the farmer needs today is simplifiction." the York County farmer continued, explaining that he believed his new $70,000 rig offered just that. "But I wonder how we're going to dry and store a crop fast enough which could come in at a rate of 5000 to 6000 bushels per day, with just this machine alone," he said. Showing me the "belly" of the combine, Richardson snaps a couple of clamps to the side and removes large panels. We're looking at a longitudinal rotor which is reponsible for the threshing action. Its speed is adjustable on the go by means of an electric switch on the console. There are also grates, augers, and sieves. But no straw walkers. It's a digestive tract which looks awesome. Considering the task combines of all brands and colors and sizes perform, they need an awesome "digestive system."

These machines swallow the crop whole, remove and store the grain in a matter of seconds and discharge the straw from the rear. No matter how often I see these giants in action, I'm always fascinated by them. It's a beautiful part of Summer and life on the farm.

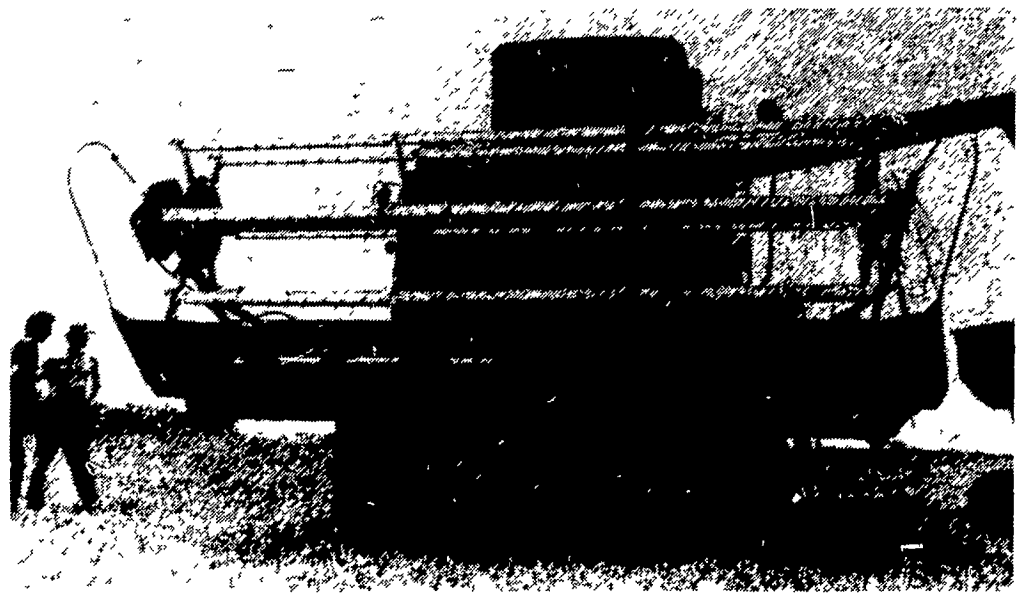
Richardson's harvesting machine is one of the bigger ones to be found in this area. Measuring 15 feet wide at the reel, and 12 feet across from outside edge to outside edge of the front tires, the combine is a true king of the farm machinery kingdom. It stands 12 feet tall and is nearly 30 feet long. The front tires, size 24.5 by 32 inches, are mountd on 27-inch rims. The rear tires are also impressive, being bigger than large truck tires.

The engine of Richardson's combine is mouted high in the rear of the machine. It is easily accessible by way of a fold-down ladder and spacious upper deck. Richardson says he likes it because the location offers good balance, cool operation, and convenient servicing.

The rye field on the Robert Morris farm was reduced to a carpet of stubble with just a few trips around the field. "About the only thing some folks don't like about the performance of this machine is the way it chops up the straw," Richardson observed as we looked across the sun-bathed fields.

It was a beautiful day and an enjoyable experience for anyone who relishes life on the farm. The sun burned down on our backs as we stood around to chat. Sweat rolled down our faces, and we managed to get dirty even though we spent most of the time isolated in the cab.

Then before we parted, someone came up with the best idea of the weekend. Ice tea served under the hot sun in the middle of a field. Man, that stuff hasn't tasted that good in at least four years!



Twice as high as a man, and 15 feet wide, the combine is undoubtedly the mechanical giant on the farm.

The new combines offer the operator a controlled, dust-free environment, electronic monitors, and easy handling ability.

Three and a half year old Kelly Morris found a shady spot during an afternoon which saw the mercury soar to 96 degrees. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morris, New Park.

Ray Layser wins Upjohn award

LEBANON – Ray A. Layser was recently honored by The Upjohn Company for outstanding achievement in sales for 1977. He is one of 17 sales representatives from the company's Agricultural Division to be named to the Academy of Upjohn Salesmen.

Layser joined Asgrow Seed Company, an Upjohn subsidiary, in 1966, and is now responsible for agronomic seed sales in Pennsylvania, southern New Jersey, Maryland and Delaware. Layser holds a B.S. degree in economics from Lebanon Valley College, located in his hometown of Lebanon.

Each of the winning salesmen received a cash award during a recognition conference at Brook Lodge, Upjohn's guest facility near Kalamazoo, Mich. The salesmen's wives accompanied their husbands to the four-day conference.

Layser resides at Mechanicsburg with his wife, Marie, and their two sons.

SHENMONT FARMS BRED HEIFER SALE

with ADDED CONSIGNMENTS

Dan Brubaker, Dayton, Va., Owner — Phone (703) 879-5900 or (703) 879-9059

TUESDAY, AUGUST 8, 1978 — 10:30 A.M.

AT THE FARM, DAYTON, VA., 2 MILES WEST OF DAYTON ON ROUTE 257

SELLING — 3 BULLS — Approx. 100 Bred Heifers due Aug. thru early Nov.

Dan Brubaker, and his family have one of the better herds of Guernseys. They have an excellent heifer raising operation and have more heifers calving this fall than needed in their milking herd Consequently, the decision for this sale was motivated to provide a market place for heifers calving at base time and an opportunity for dairymen and Guernsey Breeders to purchase top late summer and fall freshening heifers

There are 27 head from Shenmont Farm, including 3 BULLS. 2 Full Brothers by "TOP HORNET", being sold choice

Eugene E Smith, Churchville, Va , sends 30 head practically all by top Al Sires.

Golden Harvest Farm, Bridgewater, Conn , consigns 8 head, all due shortly after sale from deep cow families

Allen Smith, Hollidaysburg, Pa , is sending 18 strong-well grown heifers, all due late August thru Sept.

There will be outstanding consignments from Bill Peck, Welcome Stock Farm, Schuylerville, N Y and Harold Peck

Virgil (Pete) Miller, Manager, Phone (804) 562-4975, Alfred Beauvais, Herdsman

SELLING: 180 HEAD — 3 BULLS — 98 COWS — 79 HEIFERS

THE FARM IS LOCATED ON RT. 58, ON THE WEST SIDE OF FRANKLIN.

SALES HEADQUARTERS: Best Western Airway Motor Inn, on Rt. 58 - East of Franklin. Phone (804) 562-5146.

The Deerpath herd was founded by Cecil Vaughan over 50 years ago Cecil bought top bulls and added many outstanding cows from leading dispersals and consignment sales After his death, the farm and herd were contintued by his nephew, Clifford Cutchins, under the very able supervision of Pete Miller who has been at Deerpath since 1953 Several years ago, Pete made a study of bulls available and decided to breed heavily to Applebrook Fames CORPORAL. His decision was wise and there are 28 daughters of CORPORAL selling The next Al sire he picked was Eber Lea Farms WINSTON - there are 41 WINSTONS in the sale Deerpath Leaders LARRY and Deerpath Majesty's POP GUN, two homebred plus proven sires, have 23 daughters selling Recently Olympic View B MAVERICK has been used heavily in the herd There are 5 MAVERICKS selling and 38 in calf to him

There will be refreshments at the Airway Inn the evening prior to the sale The day of the sale, an old fashioned Southern Barbecue (Chicken & Pork) Brunswick Stew and "All the Fixins" will be available as much protein. Although he admits to being spoiled from using haylage, he does feed a little second cutting baled hay.

A person who puts a lot of stock in balancing ration, Jim notes that he has never had problems with milk fever. He credits this to keeping a balanced calcium ratio.

Laupichler

Art and Joyce Laupichler, Yale, Mich., haven't had an easy time of it in the past several years. They lost their herd to P.B.B. in 1974, but, today, after some struggles, are now back in business. Their rolling herd average at the present time is 16,000 pounds of milk and 596 pound of fat.

According to Laupichler, he had had his old herd for 15 years, and they were just beginning to produce when he bought contaminated feed that had P.B.B. mixed in with it.

"I didn't know there was a problem," he told the group of Pennsylvania farmers present, "and, I had it on the farm for 10 days." Three of of those 10 days he fed it to the cows. Because they refused to eat the contamined feed, he did get another batch, but, unfortunately, it was too late. After about a month, production went down and he began to have breeding problems.

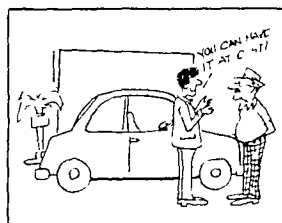
"And, then things got worse," he told the group of Pennsylvania farmers present.

Because of the P.B.B. contamination and the publicity surrounding it, the Laupichlers were forced to start over with a new herd. They bought 20 heifers out of Canada and some from surrounding farmers who hadn't had contamination.

While their first herd was grade, the Laupichlers now have an all registered 46 cow herd, thiry-six of which are milking. They breed with Select Sires.

The Laupichlers feed corn silage, and haylage. The family owns a 2030 Harvestore for natural moisture corn and a 2070 Harvestore for haylage.

CONSUMER GUIDELINES



Consumers should be wary of advertising schemes suggesting 'you can buy it wholesale." It s unlikely consumers can buy goods at wholesale costs — unless the seller has a wholesale license "Cost" and "wholesale" are often merely gimmick type words

Facts for Dairymen

By Alan Bair
Assoc. County Agent
Lancaster, Pa.

Several weeks ago I had the opportunity to tour a large cooperatively owned cheese manufacturing plant. During our discussion of processing problems the subject of yield and the effects of antibiotics in milk came up. I had to agree with the plant management that you would think every dairyman is fully aware of the antibiotic problem. If this is the case, why does the problem still exist?

Recently I was asked by a young dairyman to help him with a long-standing mastitis problem. During the course of our conservation I ask him what his mastitis treatment program was and also how many cows were currently being treated. His answer to the first part of the question wasn't too surprising - he was using whatever the feedman thought was best that week. His answer to the second part of the question gave me a clue to my question on milk contamination - several cows were treated last evening and this morning, but he really wasn't sure which ones or which product had been used.

I'm not sure what excuse this dairyman might have given for his negligence in handling antibiotics. Frankly, I was too embarrassed to ask. The fact remains that many of your neighbors do jeopardize your livelihood every day with their careless practices For your sake, and, yes, even theirs, let's once again look at the things you must do to avoid antibiotic residues in milk.

To start with, use only approved drugs for approved uses. Despite what you might think, you do not know more about antibiotics and mastitis treatment than the drug companies and your veterinarian There are good reasons why drugs are or are not labeled in certain ways.

Withhold milk following antibiotic administration by any route. I have often been given the line by dairymen that they use a muscle injection instead of an udder infusion because they do not have to throw milk away. It's just not true. Also note that intermuscular injections are not effective in mastitis treatment.

If only one quarter is treated, milk from all four quarters must be withheld for the time listed on the label

By all means, identify all animals that you treat This is the area that our young dairyman at the beginning of this article had problems with. You must know which animals are treated and what product was used. Remember, withholding times vary Set up a system that will work for you. Many dairymen are using tail tags, ankle tags, and other very visible markers

If at all possible, milk treated cows last This not only gives you an opportunity to give special attention to these cows, but reduces the risk of contaminating your milking system with treated milk.

If ever you have reason to suspect that you have a contaminated tank of milk - have your milk plant test it before you ship it. The consequence is too great to take a chance. Don't depend on dilution to cover up your errors; one cow with antibiotics can contaminate a whole bulk tank or tanker load.

Sure, we need antibiotics in our dairy industry today. You can use them and still sell antibiotic-free milk if you use them responsibly. Their availability in the future depends on your use today.

Gypsy moth spraying complete

POTTSTOWN – The office of the District Forester of the Bureau of Forestry Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources,- Pottstown R2, has reported that the statewide gypsy moth program has been completed for this year. A total of 135,166 acres were treated in 24 counties. This included 1938 acres in Berks County, 1431 acres in Chester County, and 942 acres in Lancaster County.

Forester Ronald Langford said that the spraying involved 11 helicopters under four separate contracts. The spraying costs totaled approximately $1,362,000, which included $549,000 for the insecticide, $413,000 for the application, and $400,000 for planning, surveys, supplies, and salaries. Langford said this breaks down to about $10 per acre. The entire program is financed by Federal and State appropriations and by the counties involved.

Preliminary results seem to indicate that the control achieved was very satisfactory. Langford said that the properties of 48,000 private landowners were included in the program, each contacted individually by their respective county representative. It was estimated that 200,000 residents lived within the spray area.

"The spraying is only a stop gap measure to control the insect around homes and recreational areas within affected woodlands," Langford said "We feel we have a responsibility to the residents living in these heavily infested areas."

The spray used is called dylox and is applied at a rate of two-thirds of a gallon per acre. According to Bureau guidelines, wholesale spraying of large uninhabited forested areas is not done. The areas are selected for spraying on the basis of acreage of forestland infested, number of homes, and the number of egg masses found per acre. Any additional information regarding the gypsy moth can be obtained from the Bureau of Forestry office at Pottstown by calling 215-469-6217.

Pa. Grangers win awards

HARRISBURG – William Steel, National Grange youth director, recently announced the winners of the Youth Representative Award from the Washington, D.C. National Grange headquarters.

Among the six people chosen for this award were three Pennsylvanians: Roy F. McMillin, Enon Valley, Lawrence County; Carol A. Courtney, Mercer R6; and Carrie Jo Steese, Grove City R1, both from Mercer County.

The winners of this award will represent the National Grange at the "Citizenship Shortcourse" to be held in Washington, D.C. August 13 to 17.

The award was made on the basis of involvement in Grange activities and community service.

REFRESHMENTS BY EASTERN STAR.

Maryland research field day set for August 24

COLLEGE PARK, Md. – With a timely rainfall in the next week or so, field crops should be looking good for the eleventh annual University of Maryland crops and soils research field day on the Eastern Shore. The event is scheduled August 24 at the Wye Institute in southern Queen Annes county.

As in past years, persons attending the field day will have an opportunity to see research plots involving agronomic and horticultural crops, turfgrass, and woodlot management. There will also be a separate program of special interest to women.

Registration for field day activities will begin at 8:30 a.m. near the Wye Institute headquarters office, with wagon-train tours running every 15 minutes from 9 to 11 a.m.

Lunch and a short afternoon program are also on tap. This will be followed by possible machinery demonstrations and a chance to revisit some of the research plots.

When women arrive at the Wye Institute headquarters for the field day on August 24, they can either join the men for a wagon tour of the research plots or board transportation for the campsite area where the women's program is being held. If they arrive early, there will be time for both activities. Slacks and low-heeled shoes are recommended attire, particularly for women going on the field tours.

Field day coordinator this year is Dr. V. Allan Bandel, agronomy professor and Extension soils and fertilizer specialist at the University of Maryland in College Park.

This year's work includes soybean experiments on double-cropping into small grain stubbles, new varieties, fertility, weed control, insect resistance, U.S. Department of Agriculture uniformity and regional tests, and nitrogen-fixation studies.

Corn research work includes fertility treatments (rates, timing and sources), conventional and no-tillage plantings, chisel and moldboard plowing, weed control, and variety comparison plots. (The variety comparison plots had to be replanted due to dry weather, but everything else is doing well.)

There will also be experimental plots involving turfgrass varieties and mixtures – some being tested for shade tolerance. Research with ornamental plants includes testing herbicides for weed control among various woody species, and plant growth regulators. Forestry and fruit demonstration plots can also be seen.

Vegetable research work in progress includes breeding of new high-quality strawberries with resistance to major disease problems, and sweet corn varieties for processing.

The Wye Institute is located 7 miles southeast of Queenstown on Maryland's Eastern Shore, or 4½ miles south of U.S. highway 50, on the Carmichael-Wye Neck road.

Pa. cherry production up

HARRISBURG – Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Kent Shelhamer has said tart cherry production in the state is estimated at five million pounds, up 1.8 million pounds or 56 per cent from the small 1977 crop of 3.2 million pounds.

Quoting a report by the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service, the Secretary said the 1978 crop will still be down 2.6 million pounds from the 1976 crop.

The average date of full bloom for the state's tart cherry trees was May 6 compared to April 19 in 1977. In early May frost damage occurred, severely lowering potential production.

The extent of damage was highly variable within localities and even within the same orchard. In some orchards cherries set as much as five days apart on the same tree. Harvest was underway by July 5 and was virtually complete by July 16.

Shelhamer also said the state's sweet cherry production estimate for this year is 430 tons, up 23 per cent from 1977. The average date of full bloom statewide was May 6 compared to April 16 in 1977. Some orchards in the south central production area were hit by frost, lowering prospective production.

Prospective production of tart cherries in the United States is forecast at 174 million pounds for 1978. This is down 17 per cent from last season's total but 19 per cent greater than the small crop in 1976.

Sweet cherry production in the United States is expected to total 137 thousand tons, down seven per cent from last season and 21 per cent less than the 1976 total and the lowest since 1972.

Frosts across the United States caused the decrease in production of both cherry crops this year.

Stouchburg 4-H meets

STOUCHBURG – The Stouchburg 4-H Club met on July 21 at the home of Robert Sattazahn with 15 members present.

Before the meeting, the club judged a class of Holstein cattle. A report was given on County Council.

The next meeting will be on August 18 at the Kutztown Fair Grounds.

Pa.'s King Ranch to host cattlemen's field day

UNIVERSITY PARK – Cattlemen in Pennsylvania and surrounding states are looking forward to the Fourth Annual Cattlemen's Field Day, Saturday, August 5, to be hosted by two of the largest cattle operations in the Northeast, says Dr. Lester Burdette, Extension animal scientist at The Pennsylvania State University.

Buck and Doe Run Valley Ranch near New Bolton Center, is a 9,000 acre farm comprised mainly of orchard grass species. There are 1,000 cows of calving age and 400 replacement heifers to go into the herd in the fall. The Pennsylvania Buck and Doe Run Valley operation is part of a world-wide network of the King Ranch in Forida, Texas, other parts of the U.S., Argentina, Brazil, Australia, Morocco, and Spain. Total holdings of the King Ranch exceed the acreages of many of the states in the U.S. "Anyone attending the Field Day could save a long drive to Texas, since a lot of Texas is in Chester County," notes Burdette. "The main objectives of the King Ranch program are to use a cow herd to utilize grass, produce feeder cattle and Santa Gertrudis purebred bulls for sale."

The King Ranch program has changed in the last 10 years from a steergrass operation to a breeding herd. In prior years they imported steers from Texas to be run on grass and then to be finished in the feedlot for slaughter in the east.

The co-hosts, Frey Brothers, are renting in excess of 1000 acres of land from Mrs. John B. Hannum on land that adjoins King Ranch. This also is a total grass operation and is utilized by the Freys for their Angus, Chianina and crossbred cow herds and Holsteins from their dairy herd. Freys are using ova transplant on some of their better cows to extend their genetic potential and transplanting into Holstein heifers.

An added feature will be a tour and exhibit of the Cheshire Fox Hounds belonging to Mrs. Hannum.

"Y'all come see us on August 5 at the King Ranch in Chester County, hear?" is what these longhorned oxen would say if they could talk.

This is one of the most notable kennels, having a world-wide reputation. The kennel has its own slaughter shop where food is specially prepared. On the same farm is a 2.5 mile steeple chase course where many international equestrian teams have trained prior to international events in the U.S. and Canada.

The Field Day is co-sponsored by the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association, Pennsylvania Grassland Council and Penn State's College of Agriculture. A special pit barbeque is planned for lunch.

Additional details on the field day arrangements are available from L. L. Wilson, professor of animal science, 324 Animal Industries Building, University Park, Pa. 16802.

4-H club meets

MANHEIM – The July meeting of the Boots and Saddles 4-H Club was held at the home of Michael Spahn. Reports were given by members on past activities. The County Round-up was discussed. The Club congratulated the members who qualified for the 4-H District Show on September 16.

Demonstrations were given by Beth Harclerode on "Common Horse Ailments," and Mike Spahn on "First Aide Kits."

The next meeting will be held on August 11 at the home of Sharon Gernert.

Pa. state land use policy developed

LANCASTER – Between September 1976 and May 1977 nearly 200 Lancaster Countians along with thousands of other Pennsylvanians participated in programs designed to provide citizen input in shaping a state land use policy. This input, plus contributions from land use experts, has been molded into a recently released final report entitled, "A Land Policy Program For Pennsylvania." The report, prepared by the Governor's Office of State Planning and Development, consists of three strategies: urban growth, rural/farm, and natural resources.

At the core of the rural/farm strategy are voluntary associations of farmland owners, called agricultural districts. Farmers forming such districts would agree to maintain their land in agriculture for a period of eight years in exchange for certain benefits designed to reduce development pressure and encourage farming. These benefits include continuation of Acts 71 and 319, protection from eminent domain and from local nuisance ordinances, coordination of all state agency programs and modification of their administrative regulations to respect and encourage the viability of farming, plus an additional incentive of state purchase of development rights.

Purchase of development rights is a concept whereby farmers will be able to sell to the Commonwealth the rights to develop their lands. The value of the development right is the difference between the market value and agricultural use value of the land. To finance this purchase of development rights, plans are to use a percentage of the realty transfer tax.

Although state certification is necessary to establish agricultural districts, local planning agencies are necessary to support the districts. County plans would identify the productive agricultural lands while municipalities must adopt a land use plan and establish an urban growth boundary. Land within the boundary would provide for urban growth while land outside the boundary would be rural open space, woodlands, and agricultural lands.

The other strategies developed in the report call for rehabilitation or urban areas, concentration of development, flood plain management, improvement of forest resources, and utilization of Pennsylvania's minerals.

However, the detailed proposals of farmland preservation are indicative of the long standing concern about conversion of farmland to urban uses. Whether or not this report will have a positive effect on farmland preservation remains to be seen.

PURINA HIGH OCTANE COW CHOW 36

THE DAIRY SUPPLEMENT WITH "milk power"

WHAT GIVES PURINA Hi-O COW CHOW 36 IT'S "MILK POWER"?

Purina Dairy scientists have produced many outstanding Dairy rations through the years, but none offer a greater milk making potential than Hi-O Cow Chow 36. This "super performing" supplement contains 36% protein. When mixed with grains according to Purina Research approved formulas it produces a "super" energy milking ration.

It is the unique scientific blending of a carefully calculated balance of proteins, minerals, vitamins and extra high energy milk-making ingredients that provides Hi-O Cow Chow 36 with its unusual power to produce extra milk.

Use Hi-O Cow Chow 36 for on-the-farm mixing or let your Purina dealer Check-R-Mix a Purina milking ration for you containing Hi-O Cow Chow 36. He has specific formulas to make a quality milking ration with the right protein level to fit your roughages and your herd.

Records show Hi-O Concentrate 36 not only increases milk production, but dairymen report significant increase in fat test.

PURINA FEEDING PROGRAMS SAVE $$$
